People everywhere are influencing my life. Giving me thoughts and ideas, making my life a lot brighter by just being themselves. All those different faces, they're all part of everything I do and think about. And those people make up the largest part of my world.

The patterns here could fill my geometry book—the smooth planes of an empty hall, the sharp angles of a staircase at lunchtime. Squares and rectangles that are my glass and concrete world;
the circles I draw as I wait for the bell.
And most important of all,
the straight line from class to class
I race each day!

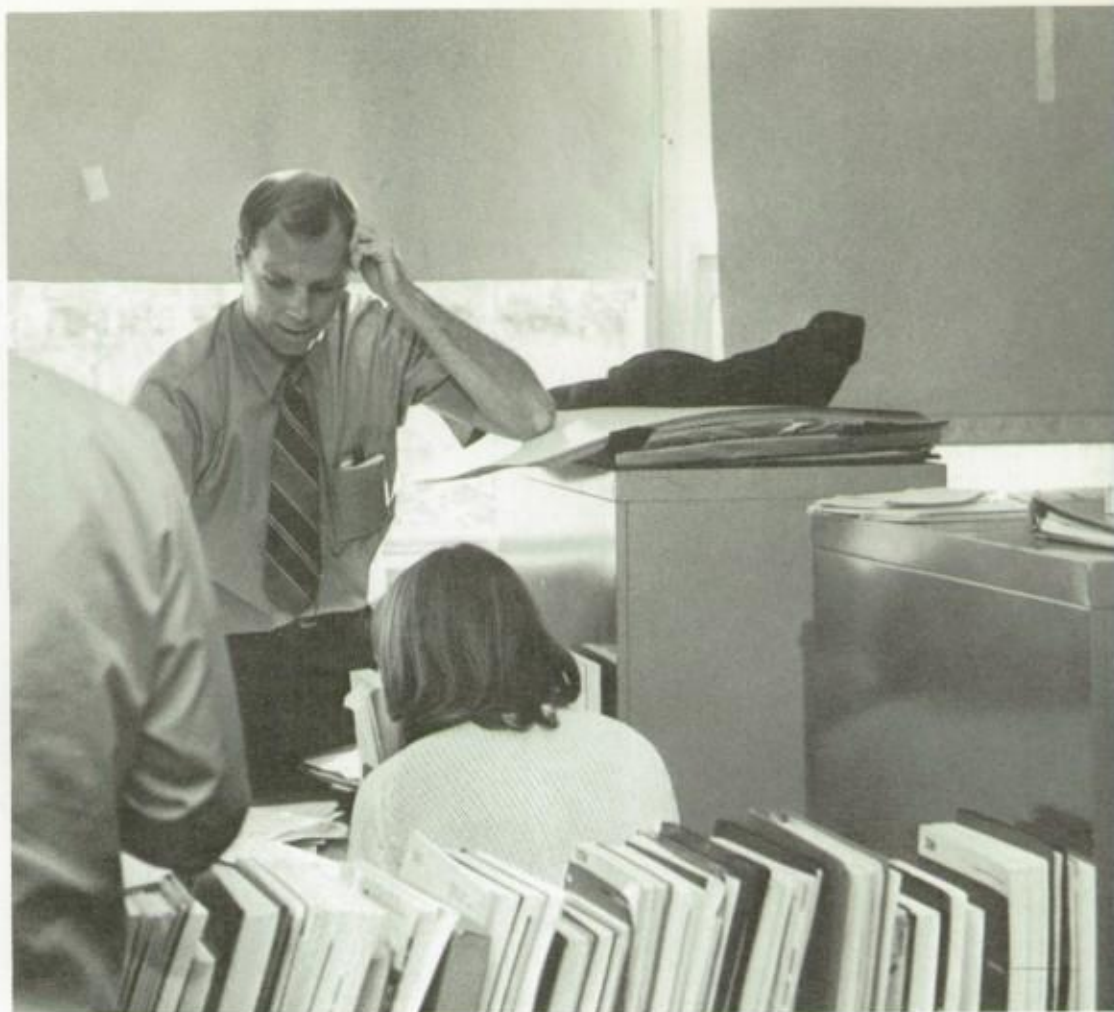

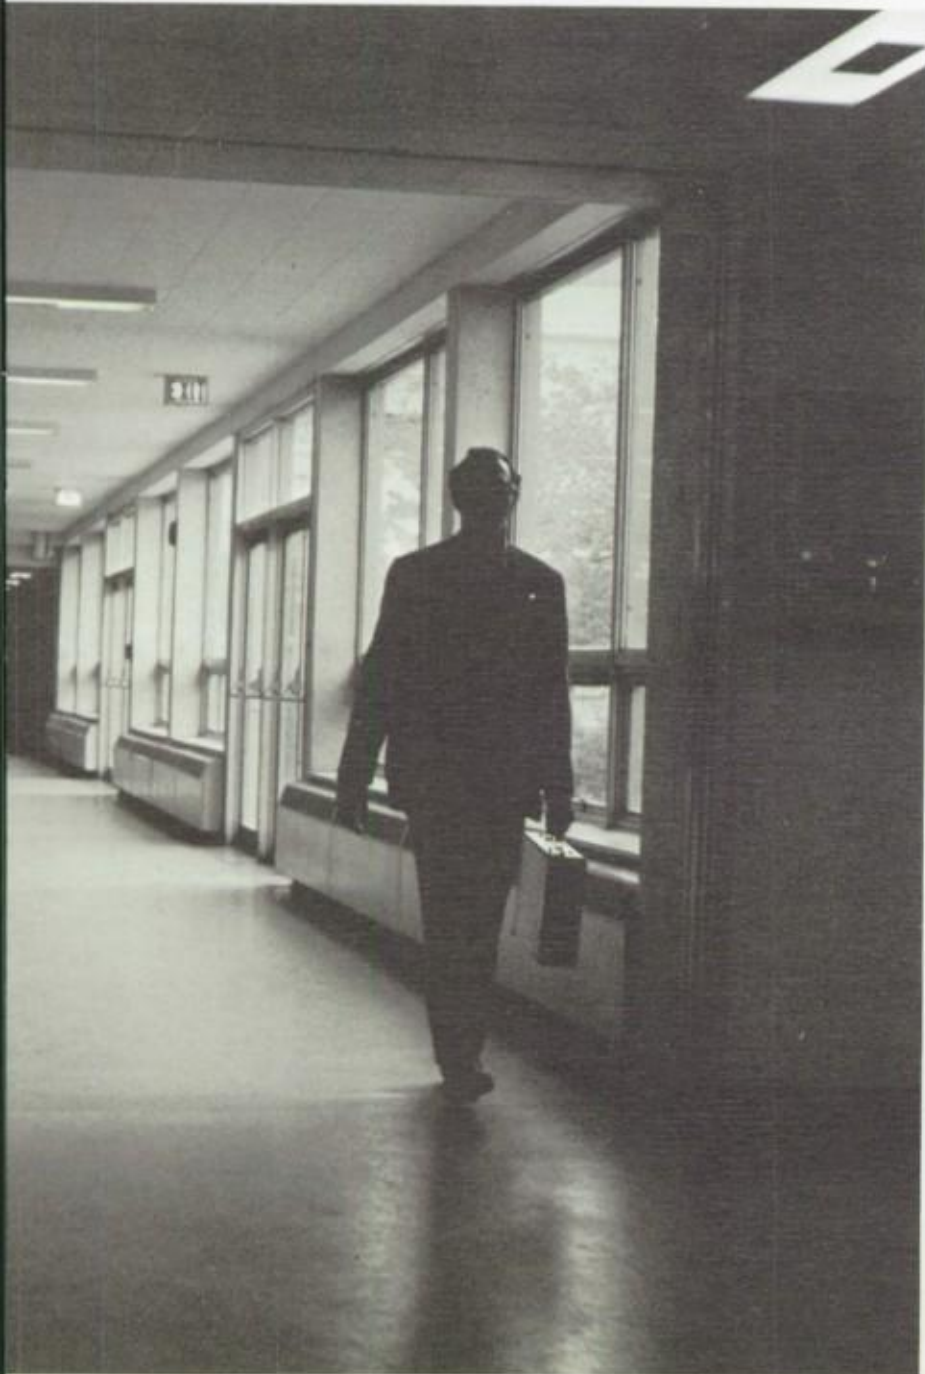

Being involved at Bogan is very important to me; not only being involved with individual friends, but with groups of people. Eating, talking, and planning fill my spare time from 8 to 3. After-school participation in projects, sports, and parties allows few moments of boredom in my world.

My faculty—that's the way I feel about it, because when you get right down to it, they're really here for me.
They're here to help me learn and to push me through halls;
to pick up my term papers and pass out my grades. In four short years they do what they can to get me ready to live tomorrow.

Classrooms—sure I'm in lots of them
but this one is just right.
The faint odor of new paint, the shuffle of feet on the floor, and the easy-going mood. My desk, a little wobbly, but who cares? It's still perfect for reading or just dreaming. But most of all it's the blend of faces and smiles that makes my classroom so very special.

GUIDANCE, LIBRARY

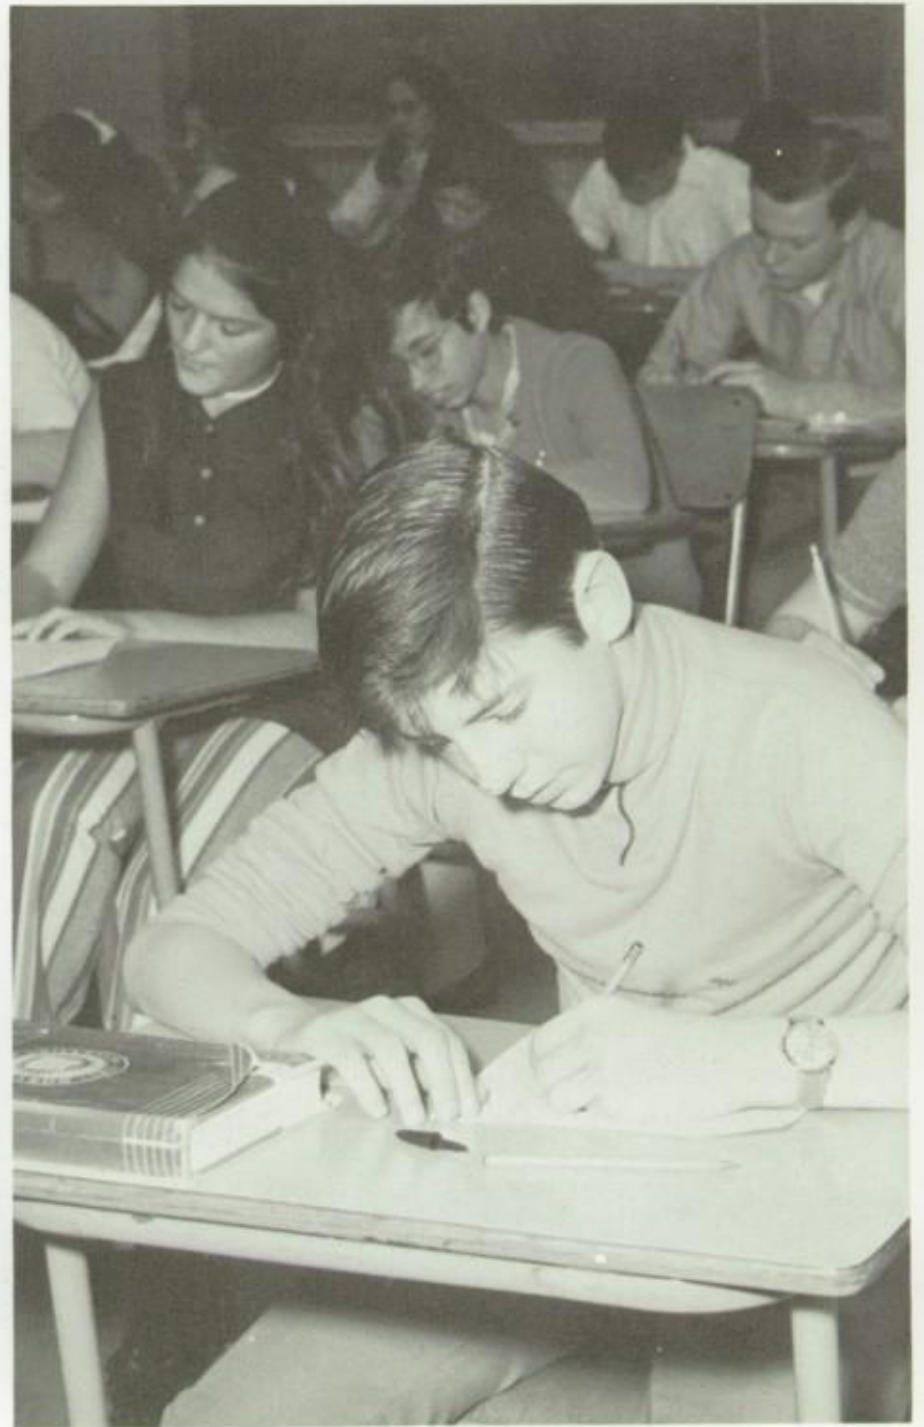

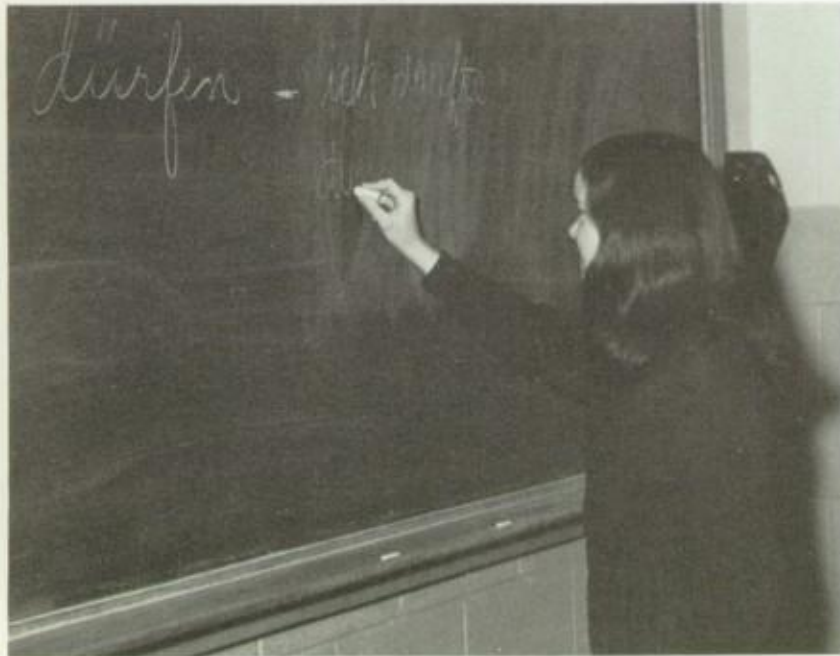

Charlene!
 Even tho I really didn't get to know you - I know I'm gonna
 miss you!
 Love
 "Skarr"

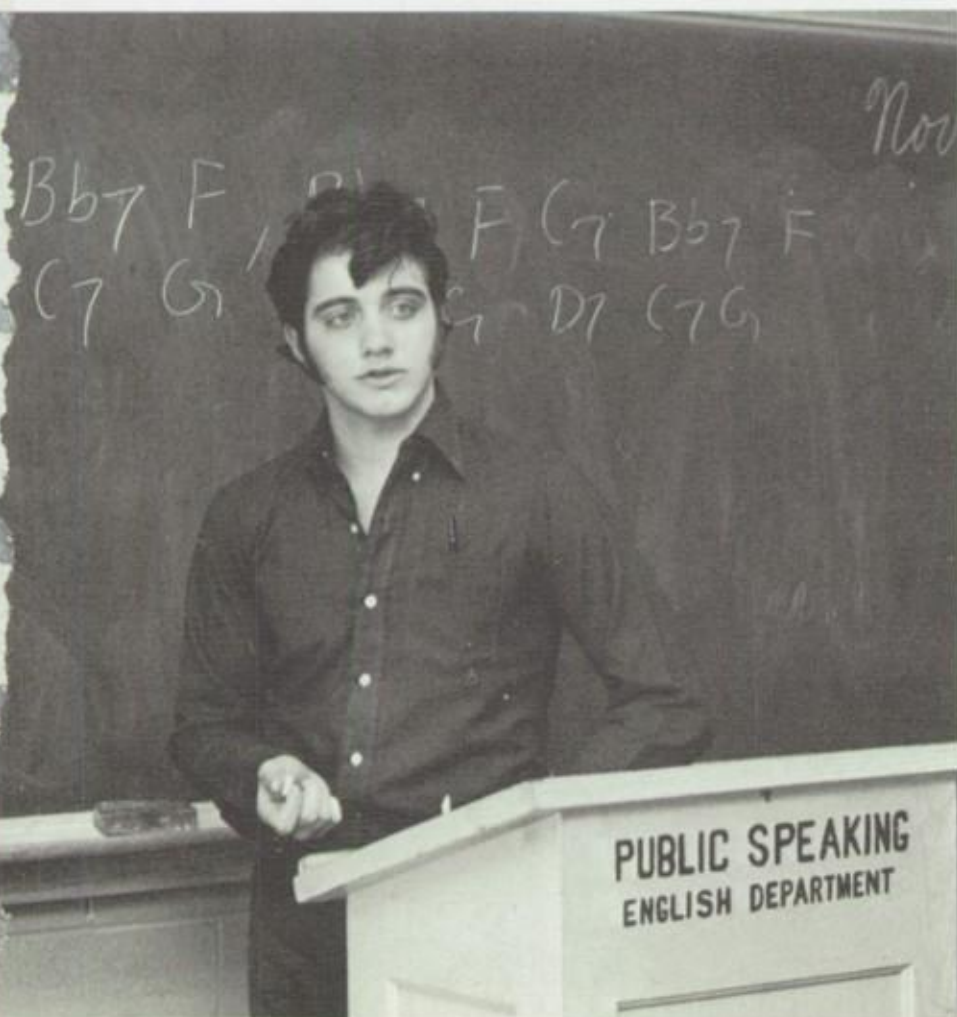

That book I need must be here somewhere.

The librarian told me to look on the 921 shelf for a biography of the great General Patton, but I guess the book's out. Maybe I should try the encyclopedia. No, I've got to get this college application to my counselor today. The deadline's tomorrow. I'll just have to wait until later to get those additional facts for my research paper.

ENGLISH, LANGUAGES

Early American authors . . .

I used to classify them with kerosene lamps, old, dingy, with nothing to offer me at all. But this year I'm finding out that I didn't give them half a chance! Poe was always fascinating, but Hawthorne, well he seems so modern. Even my outlook on French is changing. Suddenly I can understand it without even trying! I'm really getting interested. It makes me wonder where I've been all this time.

I'm so glad we don't have to take all of our social studies in one year.

Facts are so important in those classes. With my mind for dates, people, and places I'd probably get everything mixed up. I'd have King Nebuchadrezzar signing the Magna Carta in France, 1789. That would really change the course of the world.

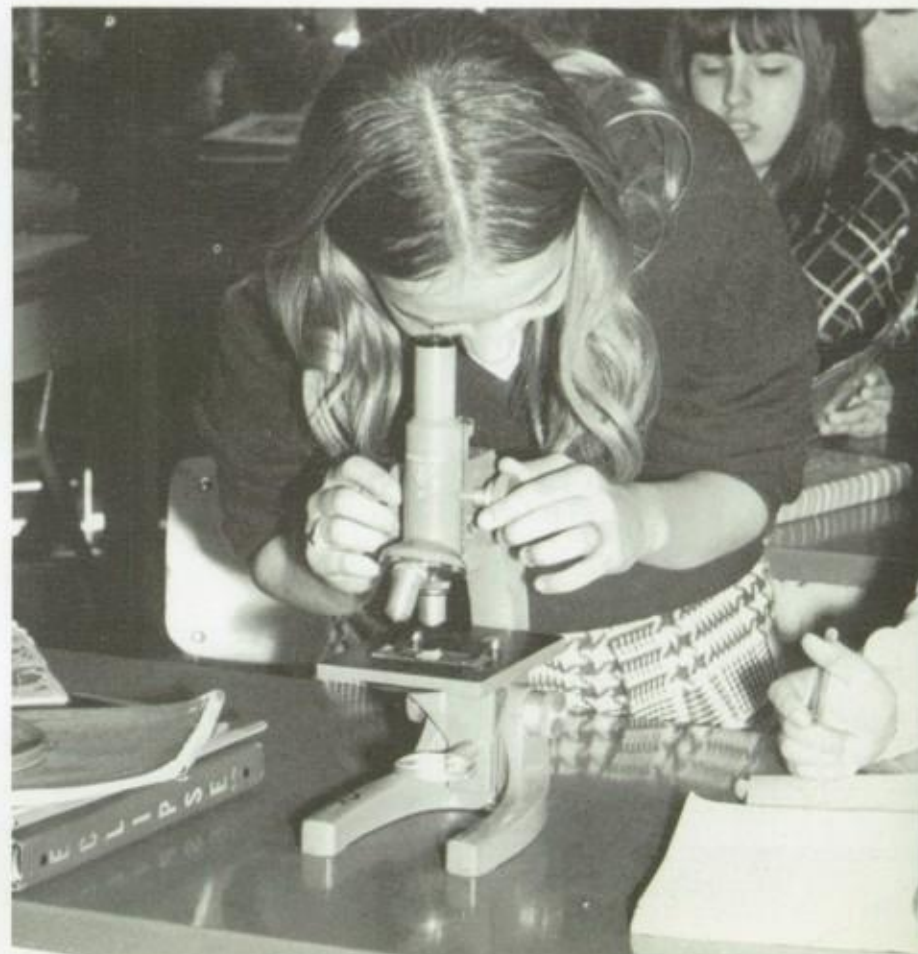

SOCIAL STUDIES

HOME EC, SCIENCE

I think it's our turn to cook in foods today. This time we're going to do everything right; perfect measuring, just the right cooking time and no egg shells in the batter. Everything I've learned about measuring in chemistry is going to be put to use. Look, I finally did it! A perfect cake! It's delicious! Even Mendeleyev would have been proud of me. I'd better copy this recipe.

Our algebra class is doing graphs now. That's fine with me.
I hope we stay there. My mechanical pencil
I got for drafting is really coming in handy now. The homework is easy. If you're desperate you can do it by looking at the linoleum squares on the floor. At times it's fun. Too bad there's nothing
I can use a T-square on.

MATHEMATICS, TECHNICAL

Once you get the hang of it, shorthand is about the easiest language ever invented. I'm using it for all my notes, especially the ones for the report I have to do for data processing. And, boy, am I glad I can type faster than I can write. Otherwise I'd never get everything done.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

ART, MUSIC

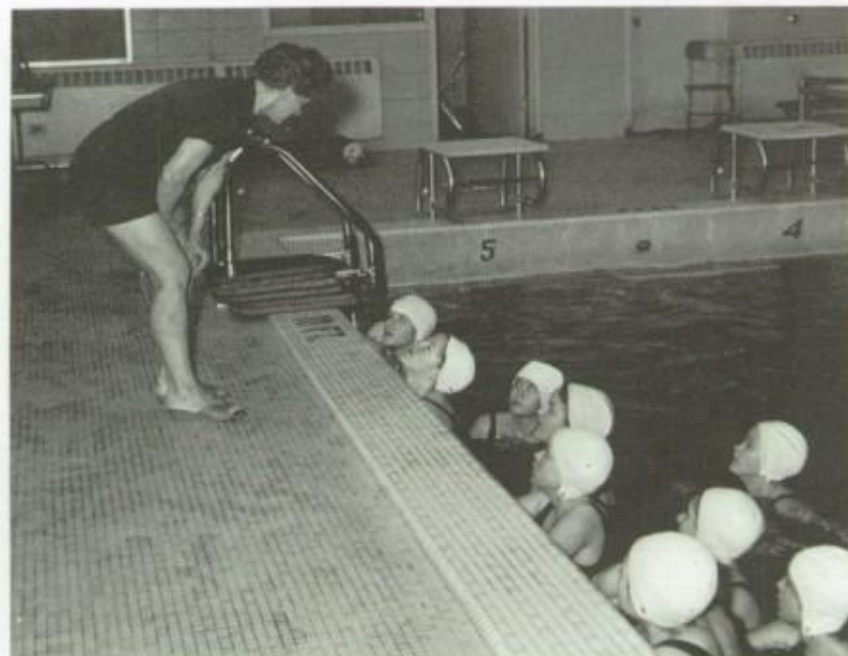

These colors are so bright, except that one there. I guess I mixed too much black in. Maybe I shouldn't have been trying to memorize that new song for chorus at the same time. Well, if I say it's supposed to be that way they won't say anything. But that's art—the only class where you can make a mistake and still pass it off as a great new "innovation." I wonder if I can still get a scholarship to the Art Institute . . . or maybe I'll try for the Lyric Opera.

That's the third basket I've missed today—and the period isn't even half over yet! Any time I try to aim, those guards wave their arms in front of me.
 Maybe I need new glasses. It's a lot of fun but what a relief, we've got swim tomorrow and health the next day. I've got the ball again. This time I'm going to get it in the basket.
 No, I've got a better idea, I'm going to let the kid next to me get it in.

DEDICATION

The greening of Bogan's world didn't happen overnight. Its growth has taken time to unfold, like the courtyard spruce which was a January class gift years ago. At first the tree wasn't much more than a branch — tenuous, shy, not quite sure of its destiny. The slender sapling could have gone either way. It could have dropped its needles in the frost and withered in the night. But when we weren't especially watching, it was growing fuller and taller and stronger. Today the spruce's roots are deep; its future is secure.

You, Mr. Hazleton, became Principal of Bogan almost ten years ago. Our school could have gone either way. But when we weren't especially watching, it was growing fuller and taller and stronger. Yet you were watching, watching all the time.

With the perception of a master gardener, you greened Bogan's world to a rich, vital greenness. Pruning here and weeding there, you watched for the full flowering, the flowering of the Bogan student who was full and tall and strong. You toiled in the garden for the good harvest. Your tools were the tools of dedication, knowledge, hard work, humor, plain language, and love. The greening of Bogan wasn't an easy job; often it was a thankless task. But as the Bogan soil brought forth mature young men and women, you felt repaid. Like the spruce tree in the courtyard, today Bogan's roots are deep. Its future is secure. And so to you, Mr. Edward Hazleton, we dedicate the 1971 Medallion. God bless you. May your years of retirement be full and tall and strong.

The successful running of Bogan demanded many different jobs to be done.

The school building itself was maintained by the engineers and their crew. A complete paint job and other major projects were accomplished this year.

The office clerks admitted visitors, ordered and received school supplies, handled the payroll and treasury, and performed numerous secretarial duties. Teacher aides watched over study halls and hallguard posts, typed assignments and tests, and led tutor studies.

The lunchroom staff fed meals to a school full of hungry people after a morning of hard work.

Others dealt more directly with students.

Counselors answered questions and helped solve problems on such matters as class courses and post-graduation plans. The matron attended to physically ailing girls.

In addition, the truant officer made sure all who left for school had found their way, while the disciplinarian counseled students and chastened them for unsatisfactory behavior.

The largest non-student body at Bogan calls itself the faculty. This distinctive group is made up of 124 teachers, each of whom daily teaches several classes in a particular subject. You can usually recognize members of the faculty, though they don't wear special uniforms. If their extra age doesn't give them away, their green record notebooks with the gold seals that say, "Board of Education, City of Chicago" will. You'll find teachers, one to a room, always occupy the table and chair of honor at the front of the classroom facing the students. They can also talk whenever they want to without raising their hands. This inherent power must have something to do with their education, as all of them have college degrees. In fact, 38 have Masters degrees and 34 have Masters plus 36 hours. You have to consider experience, too. Half the Bogan faculty have been teaching for over ten years. Among the teachers with fewer than ten years, only about 20 are at Bogan as their first regularly assigned school.

What were all these teachers doing here? Their main responsibility was teaching. With unbelievable boldness they fought nature and tried to put something in their students' heads. With the help of textbooks, they planned course programs and assigned work. They themselves had to review the materials and prepare for class. Because student progress reports are necessary, some special assignments and tests had to be administered and graded. Teachers were given this task along with grading those hated little course books.

Being responsible for the location of their students, they recorded attendance daily for each of their classes. In division, teachers prepared division reports, informed students of school business, and handled course books.

Other activities included handling study halls and hallguard posts or patrolling the lunchroom.

Besides all this, they had departmental duties and most sponsored clubs, organizations, and activities.

For you, what are the hardest and easiest things about teaching?

The hardest thing is trying to convince your students that what you are teaching is important. The easiest thing is grading "A" tests.

Leland Bracy

The easiest thing is making a mistake at the board. The hardest thing is the mathematics involved.

John Merwick

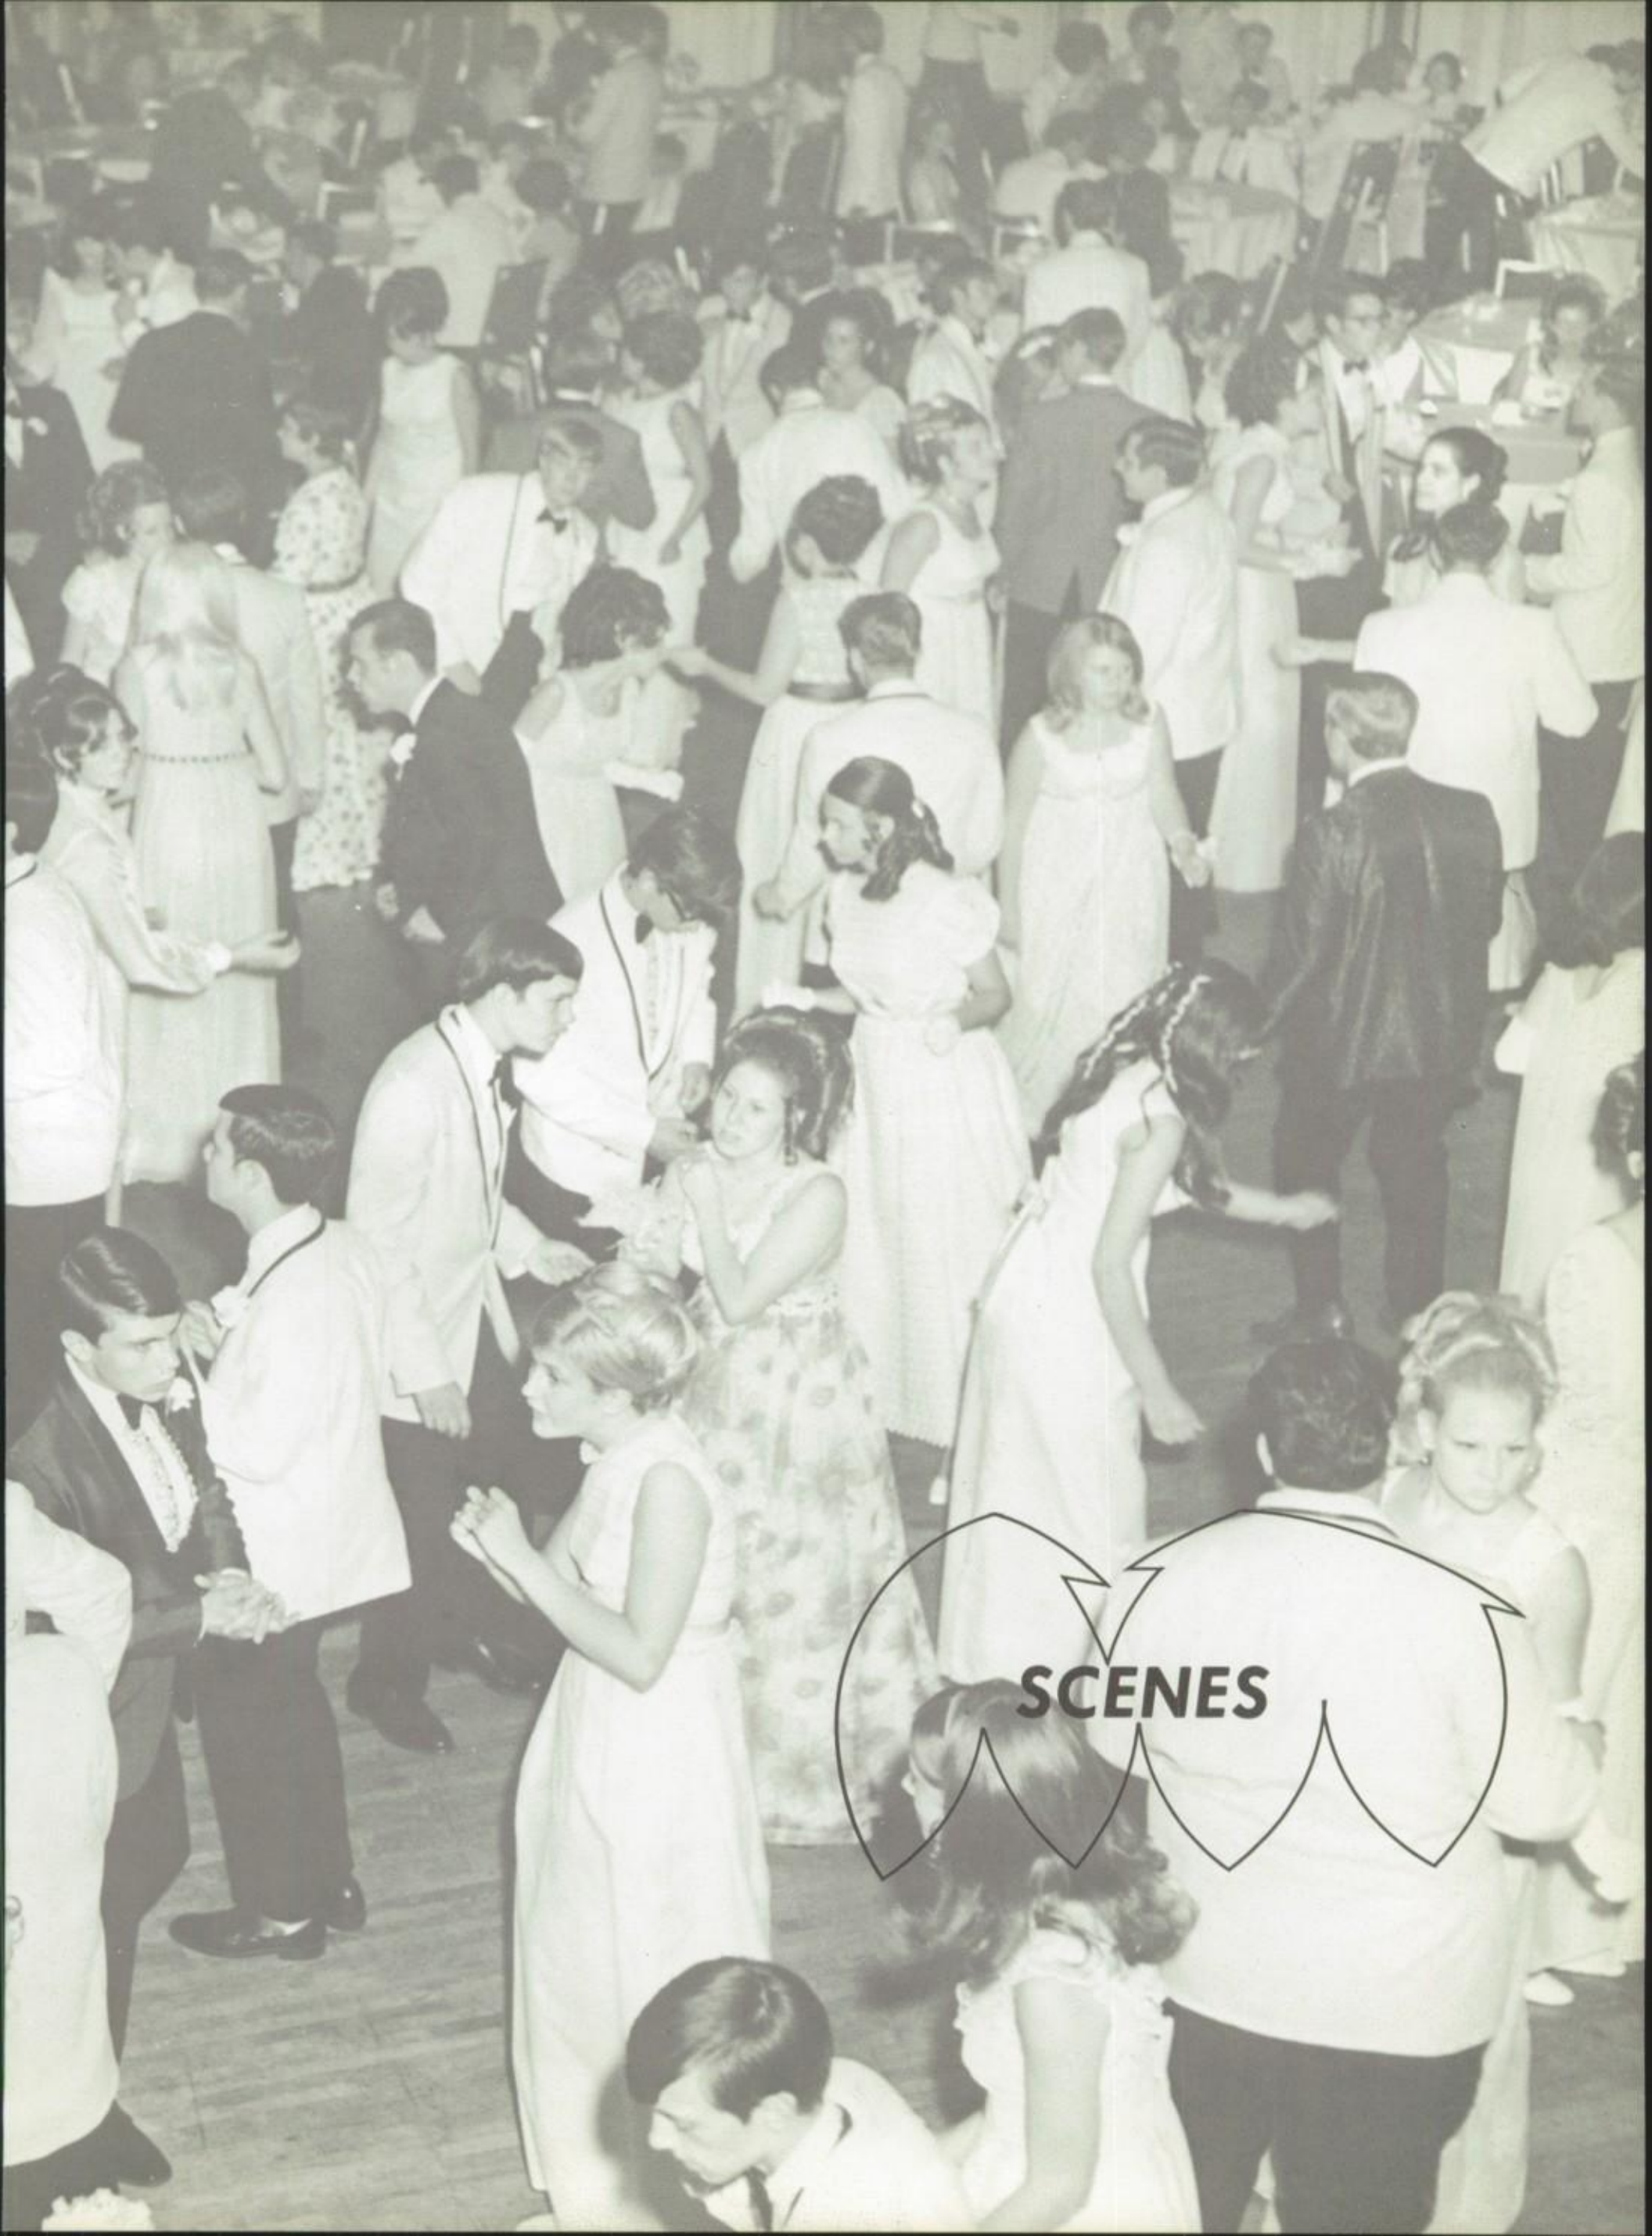

The easiest part of teaching is the first presentation of new material because students usually respond to something new and different. The hardest part of teaching is keeping up with the paper work and keeping students alive (mentally), alert, and interested.

Ruth Woerner

The hardest thing about teaching is the uncanny way student's papers manage to mount up like sands in an hourglass. The easiest thing about teaching is the lack of monotony each day. Students represent a variety of human types and personalities, so that each day in the classroom is different and unique.

Judy Browne

SCENES

All I remember now is the work, then the few hours of excitement. Every night for a week before the parade through Bogan Park we were up late designing, building, and working together to accomplish one thing—make a prize-winning float for our candidate.
 The morning of October 30 was overcast and windy; boy, did I worry! The gusts almost ruined our paper, cardboard, and paint creation.
 But as we drove through the park to the sound of the band and the cheerleaders, students and teachers alike pushed forward to see our queen candidate and the other seven club representatives. After the parade, a float that took hours of preparation was dismantled in ten minutes. It was at that time I realized I'd miss the feeling of unity
 the project had given me.

Congratulations from friends and a dance with a proud father heighten the tearful joy of queen Therese Frestel.

It didn't matter that the night of November 25 was so windy; inside Lexington House it was warm and beautiful. Couples strolling on the balcony and in the lobby provided an atmosphere of contentment and romance. The sound of the Woodstock nation was revived in the form of TW4.

But I think the climax of the evening was,
as usual, the crowning of the queen, Key Club's Therese Frestel. And as the night came to a close,
I wondered why it had gone so fast.
All the weeks of anticipation and anxious preparation rushed to an end and all I had left was the warm memories of a month of happiness.

New arrivals stream into the lobby, greeting friends and exchanging compliments. Inside, Terri Gorman checks Greg Jandacek's boutonniere to be sure it is fastened securely.

THE SPURRLAWS

Members of the Spurrllows, in an attempt to communicate with the audience on stage and off, are rewarded by the response of the students to their music and words.

The group's versatility is displayed in their ability to reproduce the sounds of soul, rock, and blues, and really "get into" the songs they perform.

They were up on the stage, filling the auditorium with sounds of Chicago and Blood, Sweat and Tears, and I was just sitting there, taking it all in and never thinking about the kids around me. If someone had told me all those "apathetic" people would be standing up, beating out time with their hands, I'd never have believed it. But there I was doing it too. And when their spokesman, Kirk Tytle, started to talk about life, I felt like he was talking just to me. This was one of the times students didn't consider an assembly as a "chance to get out of class."

Gifts, food, and music are furnished by the family living class for the Park Lawn School for mentally handicapped children. For one night, the children have both Santa Claus and a special friend from the class to talk to and dance with.

This year, I looked forward to Christmas at Bogan with a sense of involvement and fun.

Everywhere there were decorations, cards, and even bits of evergreen stowed in secret spots.

Students greeted one another with "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year," and the Scroogiest teacher I had decided not to give us a term paper as a present. It wasn't just presents that made the season worth it, though; it was the projects around school that brought out the true spirit of Christmas.

Toys for Tots, the Pakistan fund, the band concert—everyone got together to make it the biggest, brightest Bengal Christmas ever.

HOLIDAY SEASON

Is Mrs. Santa a natural redhead? Her answer is a coy smile.

"Well, Miss Barber, what do you want for Christmas? . . . And your second choice?"

The crisp wind was rustling the formals of the girls who just a few frantic hours ago were running around their homes screaming, "Where's the dryer?" But everyone was transformed miraculously into the most beautiful enchanted princesses ever seen at Willowbrook.

The scent of Chanel No. 5 and Brut mingled in the spinning, shining ballroom. I thought that if I shut my eyes, I'd wake up and the dream would end. But there he was, a little nervous, asking me to dance to the music of the two bands, In the Beginning and Shadow's Mountain. I could have danced all night, but there were people to talk to, and after it all, a dinner reservation to fill. And then it was over in a mixture of carnations, mistletoe, tinsel, and tears.

Are there other people in the room?
These twosomes don't seem to notice.

MISTLETOE MADNESS

Christmas belles keep time to music as the minutes fly by in a snowdrift of sound.

Couples find respite from the dance floor in quiet spots and comfortable chairs.

Alan Rossetti

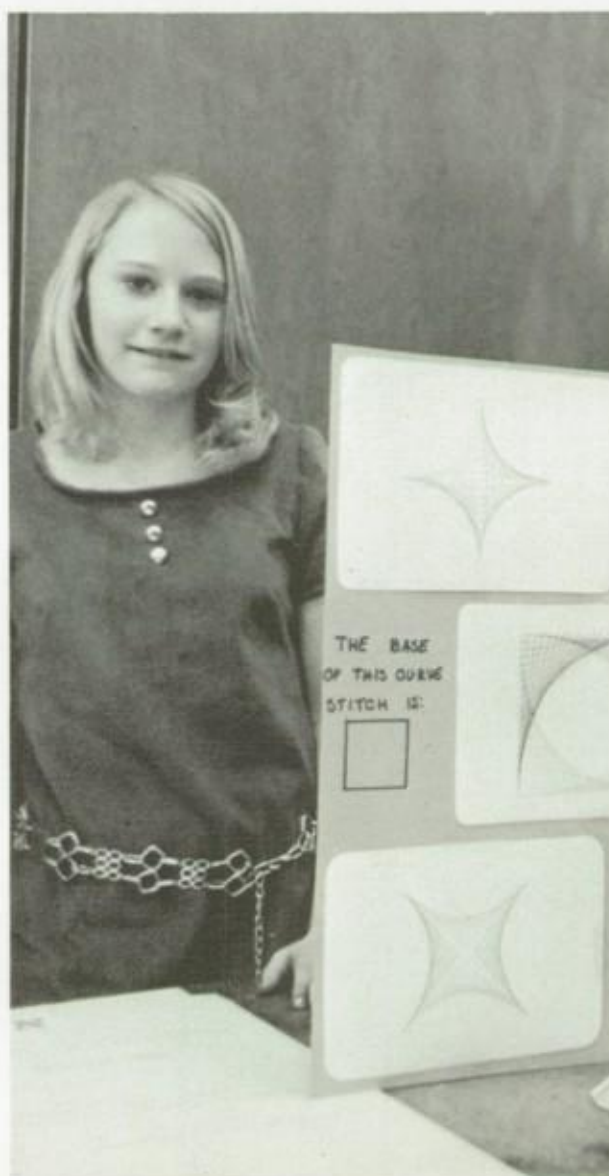

Diane Cassata

On January 21, I passed through the doors of the girls' gym into the world of scientific wonders and unknowns. As I wandered about my eye was caught by the colorful displays. The diversity that science can be was aptly shown in these projects. The projects ranged from biology to chemistry, from math to computer science.

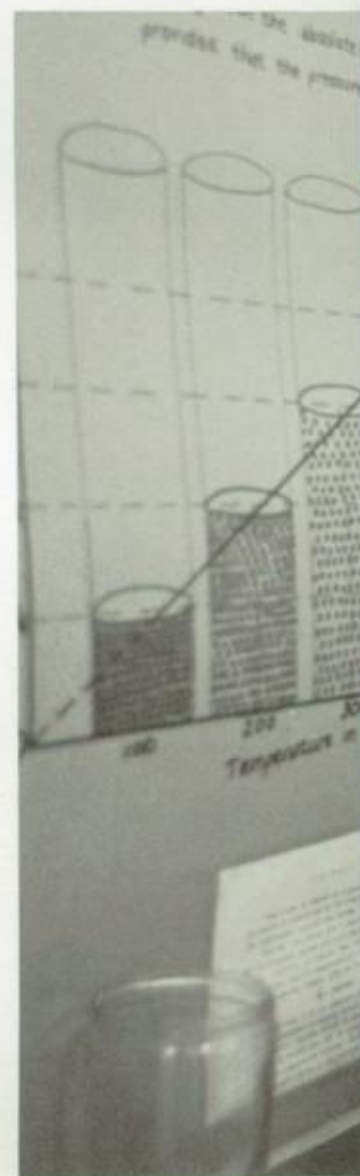

The entries numbered only 97, but were of such high quality that I was able to pick up some knowledge at each project I approached. Then the hour of judgment arrived!

Like peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, there are good projects and better projects.

The best, however were Linda Petry, A.P. Biology; Mary Beth Oswald, Biology; Carol Nenne, Chemistry; Karl Miller, Computer Science; Alan Rosetti, Electronics; and Barry Greenstein, Math. These seven projects were sent to the district fair, which was held at Ford City in the Gold Room.

OPEN HOUSE

"Now I personally believe in building everything with Tinker Toys."

Bogan's computer facilities convince a doubting father of their top quality. Clear waters reflect the essence of the evening—parents inspecting, questioning, and discovering.

A parent puts on a happy face after hearing a good report about his daughter from Mrs. Palermo. Meanwhile, Mrs. McGuan asks Mr. and Mrs. Kelley, "Are you sure this child attends Bogan?"

"Open House—now why was I conned into this?"

The kids said that it was important that I come, meet their teachers, and see what high school is like by going through a mini schedule of their program. First period—gym! Ralph's teacher seemed understanding enough, except when that parent asked a question out of turn. I think that ordering a forty year old man to do 20 on his knuckles is just a little cruel.

What did that teacher mean, by, "A moralistic-legalistic approach" to laws in a democracy? I can't help wondering if Sally doesn't take her dictionary to class with her—I'm sure that she doesn't know all those four syllable words. Anyway, how can she study when the teacher is so obviously distracting. (I had to drag my wife out of there when the bell rang!) Ralph says his favorite subject is lunch.

Well, I have to admit that the snacks provided by the PTA hit the spot. Those ten minute class sessions really kept us on the go, racing from the southeast corner of the first floor to the northwest classroom on the second floor. But we never really got lost, I just know I could keep up with the NOW generation.

Open House—it sure is different. Teachers are younger, school is newer, methods seem better. I almost want to go back to school again. Maybe I'll see if they have any 'adult' courses open."

Notes of "By the Sea" and cries of "Go, Team, Go" spur the faculty onto
a. victory
b. defeat
c. oblivion

I couldn't believe my eyes. The teacher in the gray flannel suit was wearing shorts and playing basketball.

But it was true. The annual faculty-varsity game had begun, and the showdown between the men and the boys was to be a tough battle. Mighty Mrs. McGuan proved her power in more than administration as she and Coach Artese formed the decidedly unprejudiced team of referees. The faculty group headed by Captain Andruk had a definite edge with such players as Diaper Daly, Kawka the Hawk, and Bruiser Barr. The lead see-sawed the first two quarters. At half time the teachers appeared in risqué swimsuits to entertain the students. And when Miss White was awarded the "Super Sports Fan" plaque, we gave her a standing ovation for her support of the team. Playing then resumed, and the second half drew to a close. It hasn't been decided who won yet, as both sides claim the other cheated. But I know who really won. Only I can't tell, I want to pass English.

FACULTY GAME

Farmer Barr and Daniel Boone O'Neill display impeccable taste in dress as every teacher does their thing for the faculty cause.

Teachers demonstrate they are in great shape by jogging and shooting hoops.

BAND-A-RAMA

The Concert Band's majestic sound reins in the auditorium during their rendition of the "English Folk Song Suite."

Marathon dancers fight for first-place orthopedic shoes as another couple collapse and lose all hope of being "discovered."

The trombone section demonstrates its individual talent in Fillmore's "Lassus Trombone."

Hey — I never knew the band was so good!

I've heard them on a football field, of course, but at Band-A-Rama, their talent really shone.

The first half of the show was devoted to Mr. Erst's band, and each selection showed ability, effort, and style. These selections ranged from marches (the Marcho Poco was my favorite) to pieces from the Richard Rodgers collection.

It was in the second half of the show that the band members' versatility was displayed. The theme, introduced and discussed throughout the show by its hosts, Henry Kiedrowski and Ken Roche, was "Those were the days . . . or were they?"

The performance included a radio skit, a dance marathon, a serenade by the Hungry Five, and what I thought best of all, the hula dancers. Nature-loving faculty members were the perfect close to the program, with their unforgettable rendition of the "Happy Wanderer."

BAND-A-RAMA

Spotting two hula dancers, restless native Harry Andronis decides that mowing grass skirts is more fun than mowing lawns.

River Kwai dancers march off to carry out orders as the faculty wanderers boast of their love for hiking.

The Boganpest Sextette's soloist wakes up just in time to play his part. A larger group, the Dance Band, revives the songs of the "good ol' days."

"Hungry Five" members must play for their supper to survive.

After the tragic death of Harry Beaton, Tommy sadly tells Fiona that he is leaving Brigadoon.

Involvement means a lot to me, and because it was so much a part of Brigadoon, I could really enjoy the play. Each costume, each prop, each song, and each dance was representative of hours of extra-curricular work and effort. Anybody could see how much Miss Boundas and Mr. Gerson had put into it.

Working with the forty seniors in the cast, they helped to make the Scottish legend of Brigadoon come to life. American visitors Tommy Albright, played by Ken Roche, and Jeff Douglass, played by Bob Miller, were enchanted by the charm of the hamlet and its residents.

Especially fascinating were Fiona MacLaren and Meg Brockie, portrayed by Linda Degutis and Georgianne Messina. I thought the whole production was great, but my favorite scene was the wedding.

And all my friends liked the play too — they all went back the second night. From the Fair to the stirring climax, Brigadoon was very special.

Charlie, the bridegroom (Henry Kiedrowski), dances at his wedding.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

Tommy's fiancée (Linda Fein) discusses wedding plans, but his thoughts are far away in Scotland. The townspeople find Meg's description of her mother's wedding day unbelievable.

Mr. Lundie (Jerry Williamson) explains the miracle of Brigadoon to Fiona and Tommy, but Meg is interested in entertaining Jeff.

SOCIETIES

STUDENT GOVERNMENT, I.R.C.

Mrs. Levy and Mr. Dajoni explain their views in answer to questions of I.R.C. members.

Student Advisory Board: Ron Paprocki, Sharon McNally, John Harasen, Bernie Piechalak, Marilyn Harnew, Pat O'Connor, Elaine Klecka, Brian Duffy.

As the only organization representing the entire student body, this year's Student Council worked diligently to promote school spirit, dispel apathy, and give Bogan students a chance to be heard in the government of their school. This was the third year the Council organized Homecoming and watched over the building of the floats. The Council also served at Open House as guides and escorts. Regularly held meetings gave the officers and delegates an opportunity to offer suggestions and answer questions.

Some questions, however, could only be answered by the Student Advisory Council. Composed of faculty; administrators, and students, communication lines were kept open.

Furthering international understanding was the goal of the International Relations Club, ruled by the benevolent monarchy of Mr. Lucas and Mr. J. O'Connor. Members of the C.A.H. honors classes went on frequent trips downtown to hear speakers from the State Department, the Press and foreign governments talk about anything from West Germany to Castro's Cuba. In addition, two conferences held at Bogan provided heated topics for discussion.

Officers Kathy Quinn, vice-president, Bernie Piechalak, president, Linda Petry, secretary, and Pat O'Brien, treasurer, exemplify the NHS ideals pointed out by Ken Roche at the induction.

Scholarship, leadership, character, and service to school were the attributes displayed by the members of the Bogan National Honor Society.

The annual induction in February, an impressive program of speeches and a candle-lighting ceremony, honored senior full members and junior probationary members before an audience of parents and friends.

This organization was not just dedicated to honoring its members for their past accomplishments, though. Under the guidance of Miss Calkins, they served both school and neighborhood. Selling mums at Homecoming, sponsoring the Holly Hop at Christmas, and canvassing the neighborhood for WTTW, Channel 11 were just some of the undertakings of this group.

A visit to the Second City players, an evening out at Diamond Head restaurant, and participation in extra-curricular activities provided the members with many good times, and helped promote friendship and unity within the club itself.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

After Barbara Hopkins recites the pledge to the Senior members, inductees and parents relax over refreshments in the Social Room.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Accetturo and the direction of Miss Kohler, Practical Nursing girls are taught the fundamental skills of being a nurse.

Again this year students got the chance to not only "earn while you learn", but to discover the trials and triumphs of the business world before they entered that world on a full time basis. In Cooperative Work Training, the students worked at jobs ranging from sales to cooking. But all work and no play was not the theme of this group. In addition to their studies and work, members sponsored a casual dress day for Boganites. The Distributive Education program brought in guest speakers from the business community, including a visitor from the First National Bank of Chicago and one from Turnstyle Family Centers. The Battle of the Bands was sponsored by D.E. club as a fund raising project. The girls in Office Occupations sponsored projects including a bake sale in November and a stuffed animal sale in January. The money raised was used for an appreciation dinner for their employers. The Practical Nursing program, under the guidance of Miss Kohler at Christ Community Hospital, taught thirteen girls the skills of patient care. After two years and a successful State Board Examination, the girls became full-fledged practical nurses.

Sales and management procedures are the realm of D.E. students

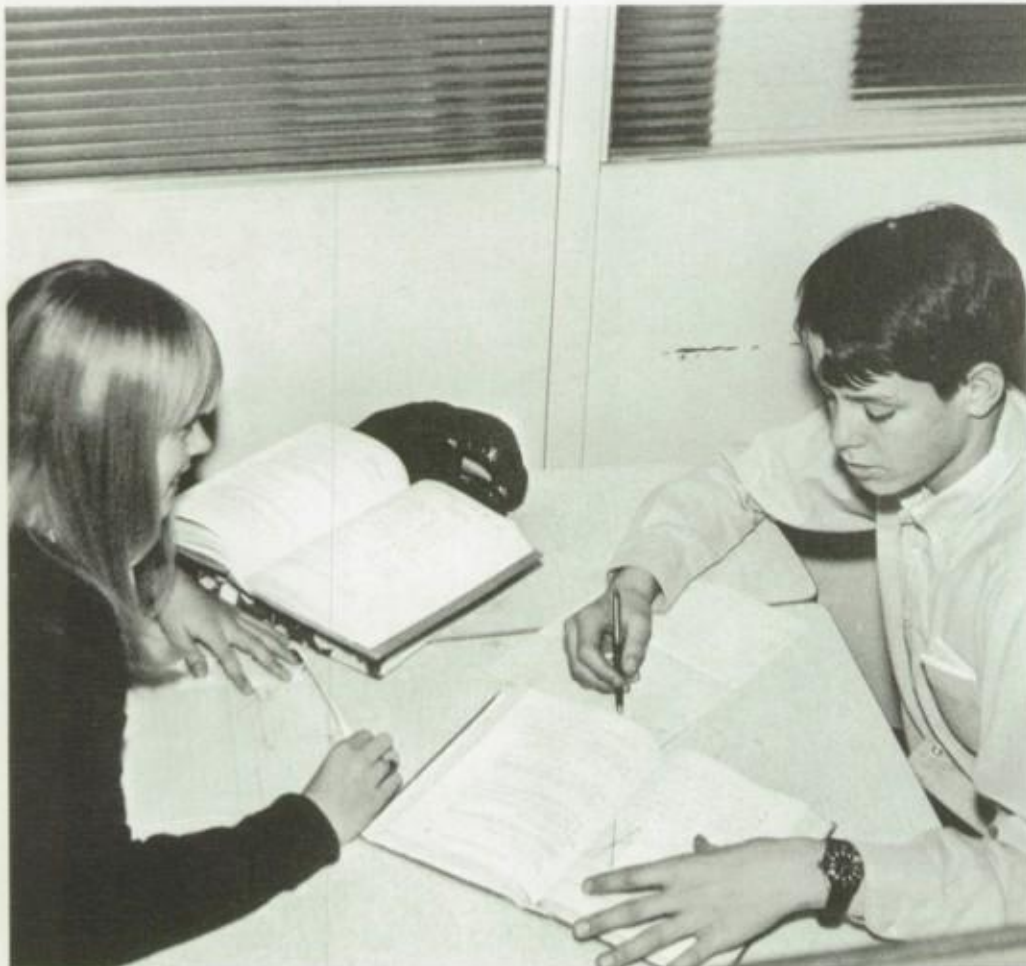

WORK GROUPS

While Paul Land makes necessary mechanical repairs, his fellow CWT members work swiftly in a supply depot at Ford City.

Students and teachers alike enjoy eating the products of "old family recipes" prepared by the girls in Office Occupations.

"A little more tape, please," advises Miss Ratkovic, preparing packages for charity.
 "A little more practice at graphing," remarks F.T.A. tutor Karen Stevens to her fellow student.

"All right, girls, we've got a lot to discuss at this meeting, so please settle down"

For those involved in the career clubs, community service, parties and promotion of professions encompassed their activities. A guided tour through Loyola Medical Center familiarized the Future Nurses with the training necessary for a possible career in medicine. Gifts and toys collected by the F.T.A. gave much joy and happiness to the children at St. Joseph's Indian School and St. Vincent's Orphanage. A field trip to Western Illinois University's education department was enlightening for the members of the F.T.A., in spite of the bumpy bus ride.

The U.S.O. cookie collection and Easter basket production for a local orphanage kept the members of Secretarial Club busy. ("Hey, we'd better find another box to pack these cookies")

Guest speakers from the business world, arranged for by Mrs. Gandurski and Mrs. Barbaro, advised the girls on job opportunities. On the social side, a Christmas party, spring theater party, and an end-of-the-year pizza party brought everyone together to enjoy the friendships and discuss the ideas formed throughout the year.

F.T.A. Officers — Sandy Bartosik, Kathy Quinn, Candi Kelly, Mary Hoffman, Mary Ann Sapienza.

Mounds of cookie boxes can't hide the smiles of Secretarial officers, Betty Moreland, Dale Hoyne and Penny Chlebicki after a successful drive.

CAREER CLUBS

Nursing care interest for Sue Tepper stems from practical experience. For Sally Daoud, Kathy Baio and Kathy Boyle, a chat with a hospital representative opens ideas for a new career.

B CLUB, KEY CLUB

Key Club officers Craig Morgenroth, Rich Skubic, Henry Kiedrowski, Dale Smith, Sam Kolegas, and William Freckman engage in friendly conversation before calling the meeting to order.

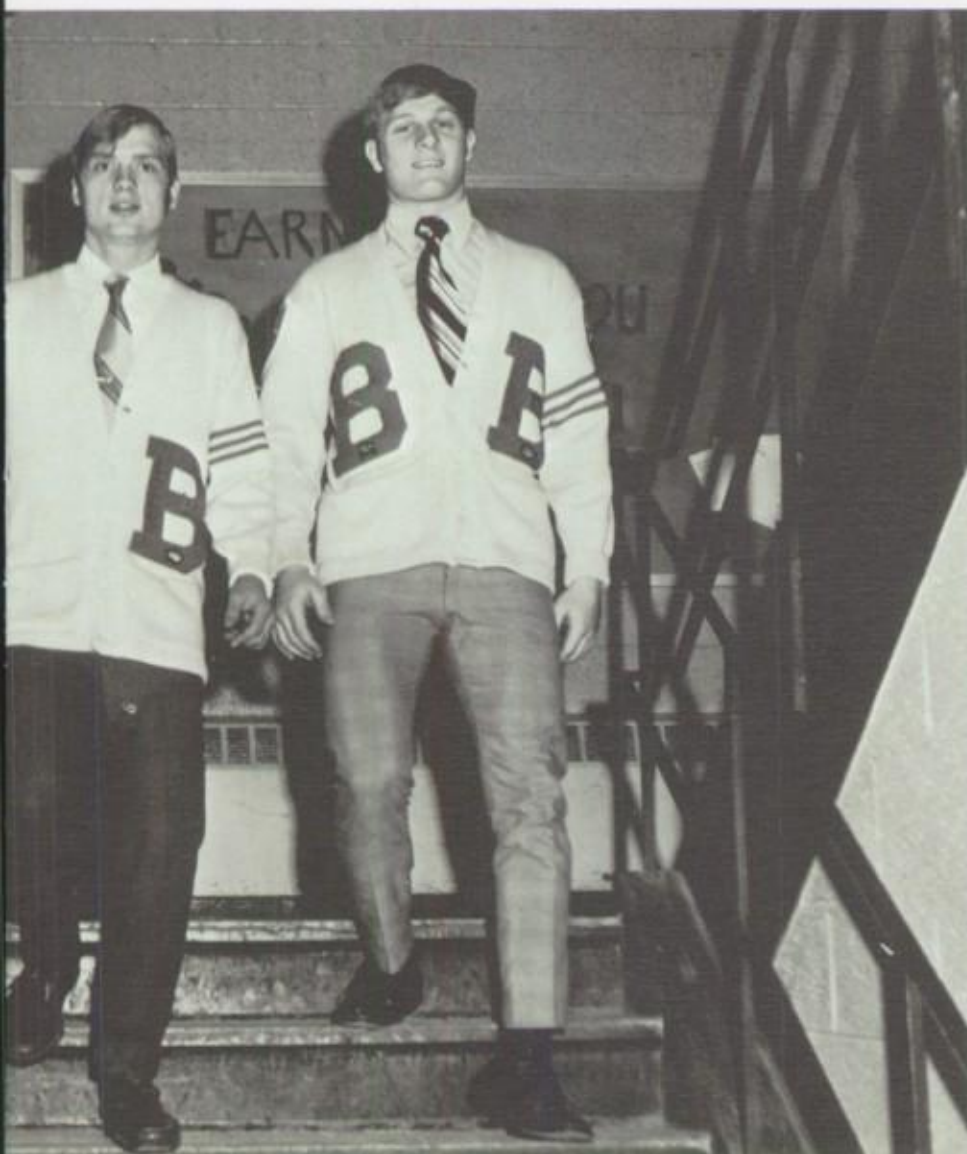

B Club members help parents find their way at Bogan's Open House. Officers directing club activities are Bill Byers, Linas Slavinskas, and Jim Frederick.

The formal Mistletoe Madness dance and the Kiwanis Luncheon honoring area businessmen mark highlights of a busy Key Club social calendar.

Outstanding student athletes who have won a letter in a major sport comprised the ranks of Bogan's "B" Club.

These dedicated students could have taught Andy Frain ushers a thing or two in the fine art of keeping crowds moving and happy at pep rallies and other athletic events.

At Open House, the members acted as guides to the guests of the school and proved invaluable aides to parents who "just can't find Room 207." The major event of the year of the "B" Club was its annual Spring Dance. This year it was held at Personality Lodge on April 16.

The Key Club also sponsored a memorable evening for many students. This night of romance was called Mistletoe Madness and took place at Willowbrook Ballroom on December 28. Service was an important part of Key Club, too. Besides Peanut Day, the group held a drive to collect soap that was, in turn, donated to state institutions for the handicapped. They offered their time and effort to both the March of Dimes and the Muscular Dystrophy foundation during their annual marches. In February, the Key Club showed its gratitude to the many faculty members of Bogan with Teacher Appreciation Day. A luncheon for all members wrapped up the ambitious year for this nationwide organization.

Can sincere and generous service be rewarding in the lives of high school girls? Members of the Girls Association for Leadership and Service under Miss O'Donnell found that it can. Over one hundred girls undertook the various projects GALS sponsored. They collected $600 for the Leukemia Fund, provided a poor family with dinner on Thanksgiving, participated in the Toys for Tots drive, and entertained the patients at the Bridgeview Convalescent Home. In school, the GALS acted as hostesses and held a bake sale in February. A college trip in April was the other activity that offered the members a greater chance to promote friendship. The major project of the Bogan Service Guild this year was to support the overseas orphan they adopted. A dance and a flower sale provided the funds that were so necessary to this worthy endeavor. The members directed the Toys for Tots drive that provided needy children in the community with Christmas gifts. This enormous undertaking was very popular with the Bogan student body, and the Guild spread real Christmas love and joy.

G.A.L.S., SERVICE GUILD

Service Guild officers Debbie Kies, Sharon Kosan, Ellie Katos, and Sarah Becvar direct the club through a busy year.

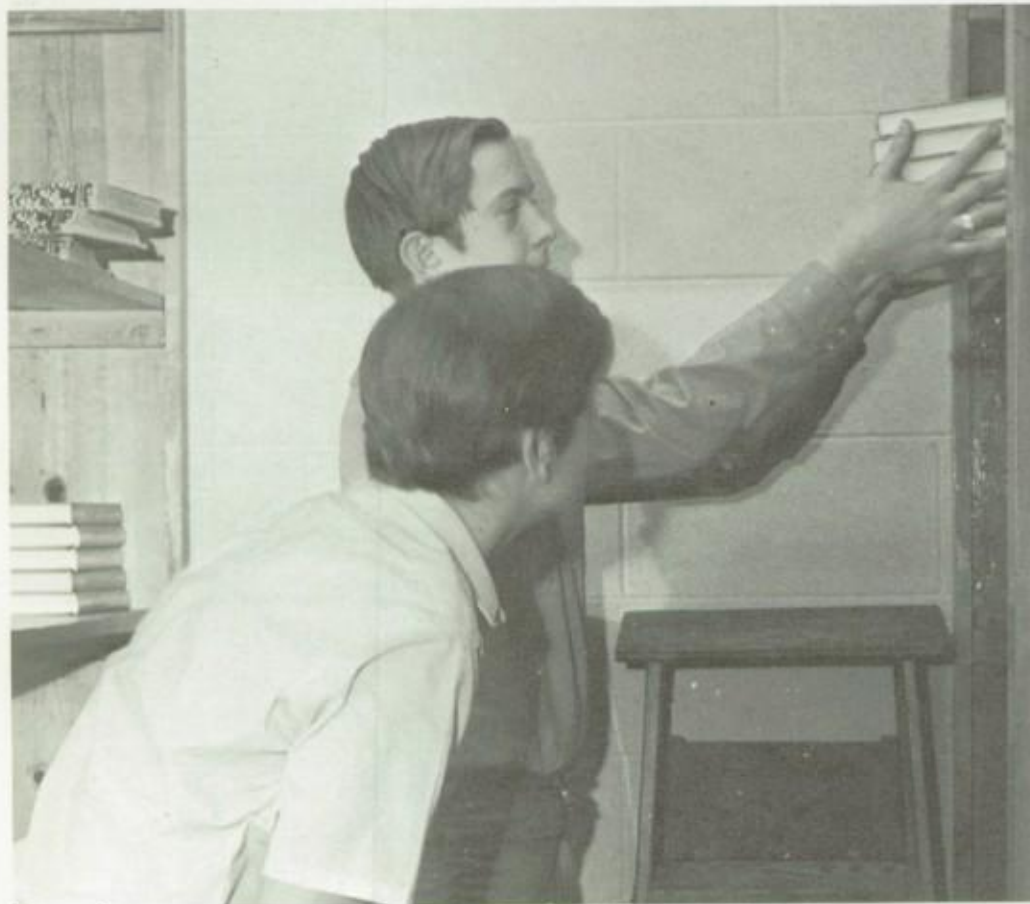

Varied social activities for the year include the GALS tea and Service Guild's St. Patrick's Day dance.

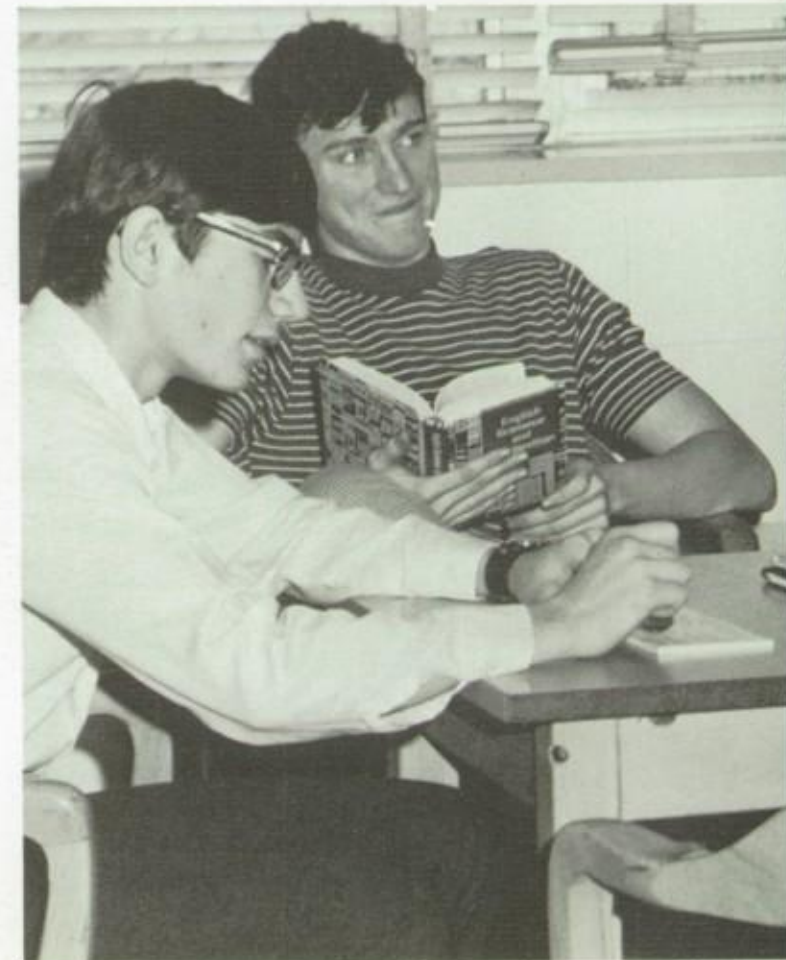

Santa and the Marines join forces at Ford City's Toys for Tots rally and bring the drive to a rousing finish.

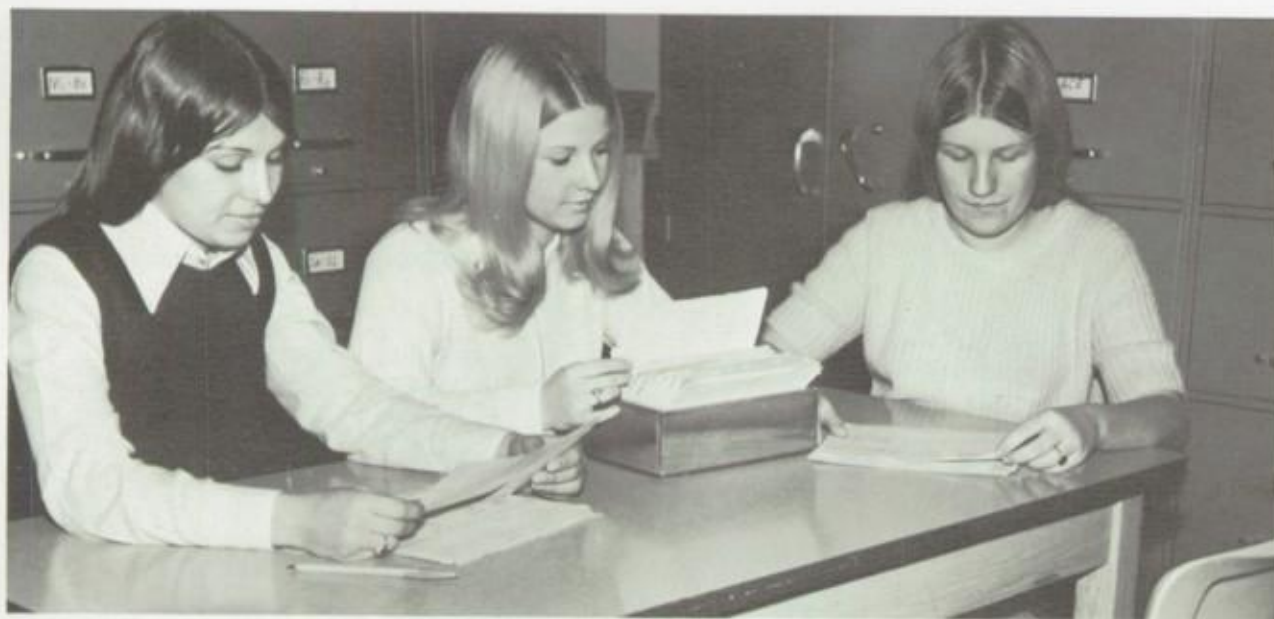

STUDENT AIDES

Corrine Miller keeps the card catalog in top condition by carefully alphabetizing title and author cards. Nearby, Attendance Office helpers Gail Darnell and Sue Budz check and record tardies.

Bookroom aides prepare to deliver a stack of algebra books to room 215. A break in the Main Office aides' routine provides time to catch up with smaller responsibilities.

Carol Krzan, Pat O'Brien, and Kathy Hellmer assist the counselors by sorting program cards. Mr. Connellan directs Chris Westrom as she grades English exam papers.

Any student who wished to sacrifice a free period was able to become an aide. Occupations of this sort gave many students an opportunity to familiarize themselves with school operations. Each day presented the aide with a variety of different tasks. In the Main Office, an aide was expected to file mail in teachers' boxes or deliver important notices to teachers. Bookroom aides guarded Bogan's supply of textbooks and supervised all loaning and returning of books. Attendance Office helpers sometimes hunted down criminals at large wanted by Mr. Kittridge. Daily routine called for them to record tardies and absences. A student assigned to aide a teacher or counselor took on the responsibility of alphabetizing program cards, recording grades and serving as a messenger. Library aides assisted forlorn students in their search for a seemingly last novel. They demonstrated the library's newest asset, the copier. Aides gained knowledge not only of how the system was run but of how to accept responsibilities.

Audio-visual aides bring movies to classrooms while Jim Oliver spends his time taping a game with a video tape recorder.

Stage Crew members Joe Shroth, Tony Restus; Keith Alberts, Tim Hynes, Don Spallina, Bob Trimarco, and Mr. Jurka keep assemblies running smoothly.

The burden of keeping the school functioning properly fell to three service organizations. Bogan's crack force of hallguards practically obliterated class-cutting and other unethical, circuitous procedures. Ambition got the better of them as ecology-minded hallguards cleaned the halls of litter on their daily rounds. Even so, they still had time to complete forgotten assignments and prepare for tests. Prospective film directors, recording engineers, and sound technicians were kept busy by the audio-visual department as they learned the aspects of mass media. Running movie projectors and setting up record players proved to be a time-consuming task. Frequently the boys were more reliable than the machines. Their efforts abetted many classes with lively pre-packaged lessons. Keeping assemblies running smoothly was the job of the stage crew. They controlled props, lighting, microphones and curtains with a professional touch. Shrouded in obscurity, they silently operated backstage a smooth performance to complement the one going on in stage center.

A.V., HALLGUARDS, STAGE

Energetic and alert hallguards intently scan halls for class-cutters.

Page editors Linas Slavinskas and Gigi Davis tackle their respective tasks for completion of another issue of the paper.

What's new?, a trite question that is heard too frequently for its own good, really sums up this year's Bengal Lancer. Newness in location, in leadership, and in policy were the guides for a staff that found adjustment easier to take than they thought.

Mobile Unit "A", a large, pink, box-shaped ediface was the new home of Student Publications.

This former college office was quite different from Room 209 where the Publications was formerly housed. It's airy spaciousness lent itself well to the creativity that flowed from pens of busy journalists, and its curtains and water fountain were welcome luxuries.

The new sponsor, Mr. Broderick, and the four new editors, Gigi Davis, Bill Drawz, Peg DiVittorio, and Linas Slavinskas worked together to shape a newspaper that was meant to give students a voice in school activities.

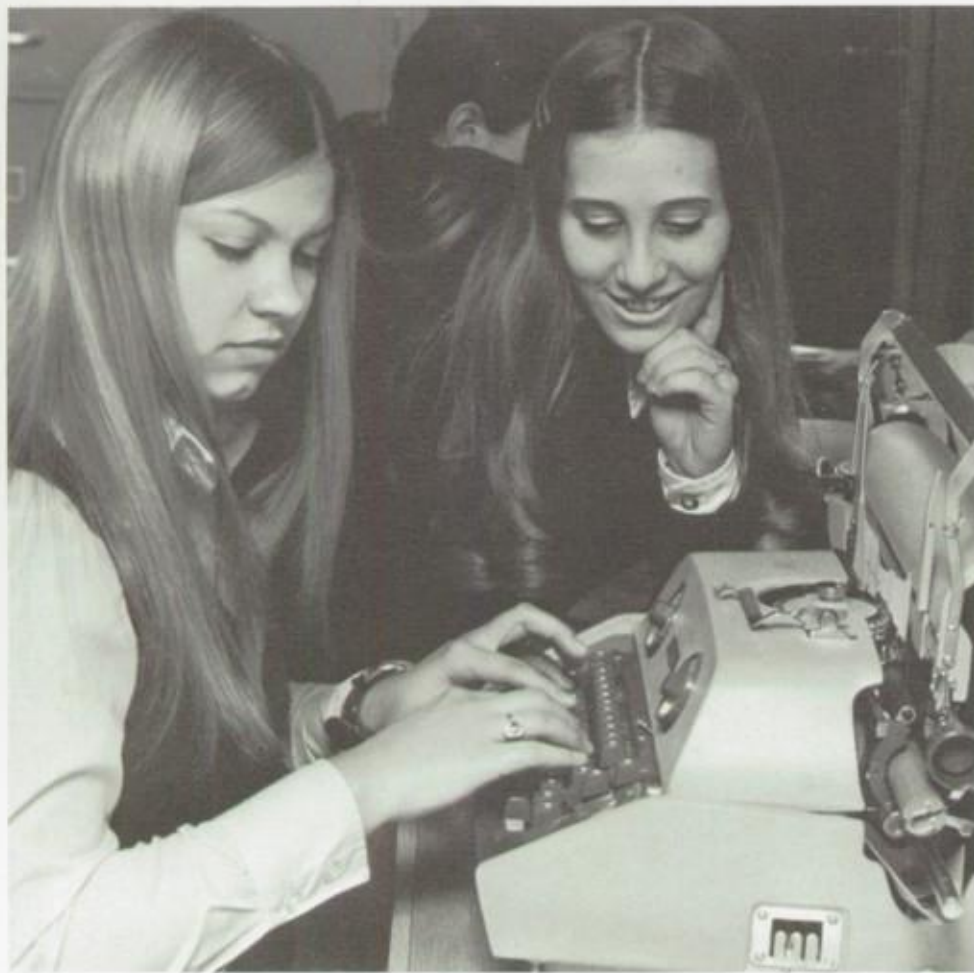

Meeting deadlines was the major headache, and treading on toes the minor one, but here the staff really pulled together to keep the Lancer in print and out of hot water. Finally, the reporters, typists, artist, and frequent contributors helped to make the Begal Lancer a real Student paper—not just in print, but in spirit. What's new? The Bengal Lancer is!

Reporters review the finished product.

Reporters Bob Kupka and Su Gavin anxiously await new stories at the suggestion box which will eventually be typed by Pam Fasano and Linda Fein.

Business manager, Barb Hopkins plans her strategy for the sales campaign.

Linas Slavinskas, Gayle Bermel and Janice Carlson compose copy for cutlines for a layout.

Faculty editor Kurt Hitzeman explains the photos desired to photographer Keith Watt.

Thoughts of planning and organization whirl in the mind of editor-in-chief, Lynn Nagy.

Gathering material for a spread isn't always hard labor for senior section editors, Kris Kennedy and Linda Rasins.

"Missed deadlines mean delayed yearbooks."

With these forbidding words in mind, the Medallion staff worked to keep them from becoming reality. Theme formulation, photo schedules, and section planning began early in the year, as new members discovered that the yearbook didn't just "suddenly appear" in June. Pictures had to be sorted, copy written, and lay-outs created before the final effort was mailed to the publisher. Numerous trips made daily between Publications' Mobile I and the school building prevented the staff from becoming detached from the world they would be presenting in the 1971 Medallion. But suddenly the book was completed. The staff wandered aimlessly about, searching for any duty that would duplicate the hectic days of the past. But there was nothing to be found. All that was left was the knowledge that each page wasn't just pictures and copy, but hours of united effort that had created lasting friendships.

CHORUS, FOLK MUSIC

Repetitious hours of rehearsal contrast with the exhilarating Christmas performance of Girls Chorus.

Through instruments as well as voices,
Mixed Chorus and Folk Music Club spread notes of happiness.

Musically interested students found many ways to exercise their vocal chords this year as enrollment in choruses and music clubs increased. Besides daily practice and the annual Christmas Concert, in which all participated, various other performances were given.

The Girls' Chorus under Miss Fitzgerald rehearsed incessantly and gave a perfect Christmas-time concert at Holy Cross Hospital. Among the many numbers they sang were "Jingle Bell Rock", "Winter Wonderland" and a medley of traditional carols. Mr. Gersons' Mixed Chorus spent time on a tour of Dawes, Carrol, Owen, and Stevenson schools singing carols and folk songs. Additional practicing for the Spring Festival resulted in excellent versions of Mozart's "Laudate Dominum" and Britten's "Concord" among others.

Folk Music Club again was the salvation of rock-music wrecked ears as solo guitar and bright banjo melodies eased the blues. Member participation increased when a kazoo chorus was added and class-time practice sessions polished the group for their annual performance at Ford City. Here they treated the audience to renditions of "Four Strong Winds", "Big Blue Frog", "If We Only Have Love" and other favorites.

CONCERT BAND

Rousing fight songs cool the appetite at the Football Banquet.

All-City Band Members—Seated: Carol Forch, Mary Hansen, Georgeanne Davis, Kathy Bennick, and Rebecca Stephan.
Standing: Ronald Paprocki, Ronald Merritello, Marc Donatelle, Paul Machalek, and Anthony Restus.

Repeated rehearsals will eventually find Junior Band members performing on stage in Concert Band uniforms.

Whenever in demand for Bogan's musical enlightenment, the Concert Band responded with superior performances at all times. Hours and hours of practice accumulated from the eighth period meeting of all Band members every day under the guidance of Mr. Adolf Erst. While rehearsing for the major performances such as the Christmas Assembly, Band-A-Rama, and the Spring Festival, the Band also found time to appear at football games, the football banquet, and other assemblies throughout the year. "Roughing it" in cold weather at Ford City, Band members entertained for the kick-off of "Toys for Tots." The stomping "Schlitz" song, the artistic arrangement of "Night Before Christmas," or the traditional tones of the "Star-Spangled Banner" were but brief examples of the Band's scope of musical achievement. From the main core of musicians of Bogan, many aspiring young men and women offered their talents to the All-City Band, All-City Orchestra, and the Youth Orchestra of Chicago. Competition in solo or ensemble contests was not a rarity. Combined effort of all involved resulted in a peak of perfection.

The Spanish Honor Society Induction rises to its climax with a pledge to the Society in Spanish. Club officers Caryn Cecka, Frank Hawk, Kathy Zortz, and Diane Hendershott preside over the annual ceremony.

Membership grew in language clubs as students entered the world of a culture different from their own. Fellow constituents devised new activities depicting typical customs of the different nationalities. Pan Am sponsored a festive Christmas celebration featuring a pinata and other Spanish trimmings.

Candles lit the way to fellowship for students who furthered their education in the Spanish language.

Following the annual Spanish Honor Society induction was a theater party held at the Candlelight Playhouse.

The German Club devoted time and energy in an effort to raise scholarship funds for a deserving German IV student.

Cookie sales and Erntedankfest, a dinner for club members only, helped the club's cause.

The skilled French and Latin clubs generously donated time and talent to creating colorful dolls and stuffed animals for retarded children. These societies were constantly active which made the high goals they set easier to obtain.

LANGUAGE CLUBS

Pinatas and tacos usher in the Christmas season for Pan Am.

HOBBY CLUBS

characterize Bengal Bowlers.

After

Masters of disguise, chess players cleverly conceal their excitement during games.

The Chess and Checkers Club met regularly.

Battles became more heated and each time the members were more intent on jumping opponents and capturing kings.

Strategy was carefully planned during spare time.

"... you really think you're good, huh, next time I'm gonna triple jump you!" The excitement generated by the games never let up as visions of little squares followed members to their classes.

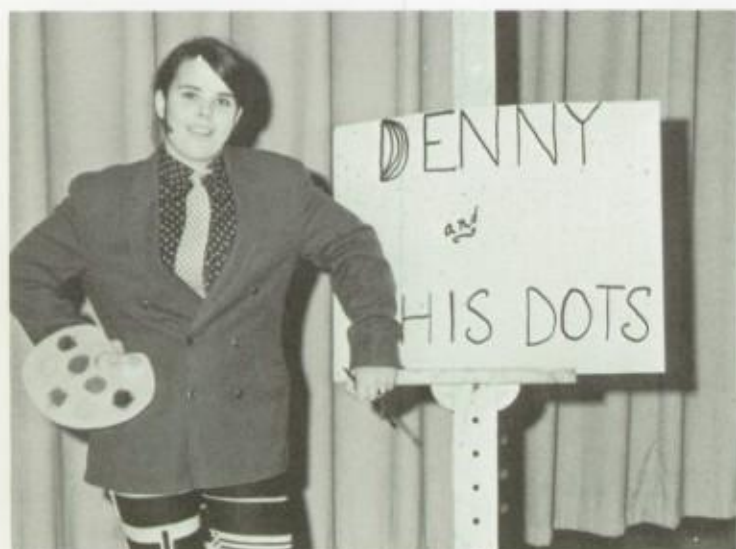

Students who preferred sociable after-school sports joined the Bowling League and spent many Thursdays improving their form and style at Scottsdale Lanes.

Cries of "A strike, finally! I don't believe it!" and "No, not another gutter ball!" permeated the relaxed atmosphere.

Special events such as the Christmas Team Tournament and the Family Twosome Tournament which gave members a chance to bowl with adults increased interest and participation.

Fewer and fewer balls were dropped on toes as patient coaching from teammates and sponsor improved almost everybody's game.

DRAMA CLUB

Drama Club members, winners of the "Teacher for a Day" contest, run the school with complete normalcy.

The ghosts, chains and remembrances of the past of "A Christmas Carol" bring holiday spirit nearer and melt the hearts of Scrooges everywhere.

Curtain opened for students with a dramatic flair as they upstaged former efforts in the drama field.

First period Friday mornings found the members in the auditorium rehearsing and polishing their performances and hoping to be "discovered" by any talent scout who happened to be present. Officers Ed Gallagher, Mary McElroy, Patty Dueworth, and Cindy Hackiewicz helped keep the club free of any dramatic crisis.

During the first half of the school year the players put on a skit entitled "Getting to Know You" which spoofed the faculty, and Charles Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Writing their own material was an important facet and members proved adeptness at it in their skit for Band-A-Rama. The background in theatrical acting these students acquired was almost as valuable as finally overcoming their stage fright.

LUNCH CLUB

The closest thing to the "Good Ship Lollipop," Bogan's canteen, provides snacks for lunch and class. Students who prefer other exotic delicacies head elsewhere.

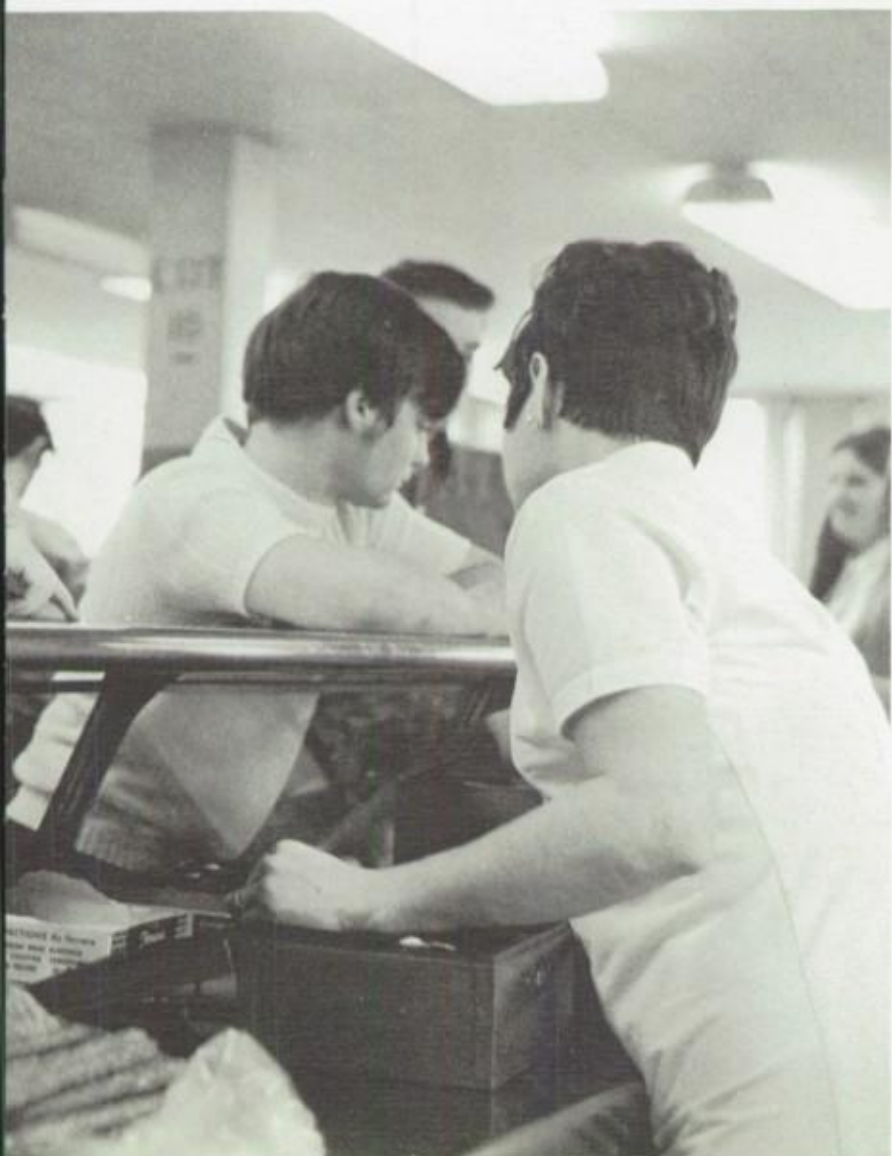

Students who lunch at Tobie's and White Castle enjoy a relaxing break in everyday school routine.

The nutritional value of student lunches is supplemented by lively conversation.

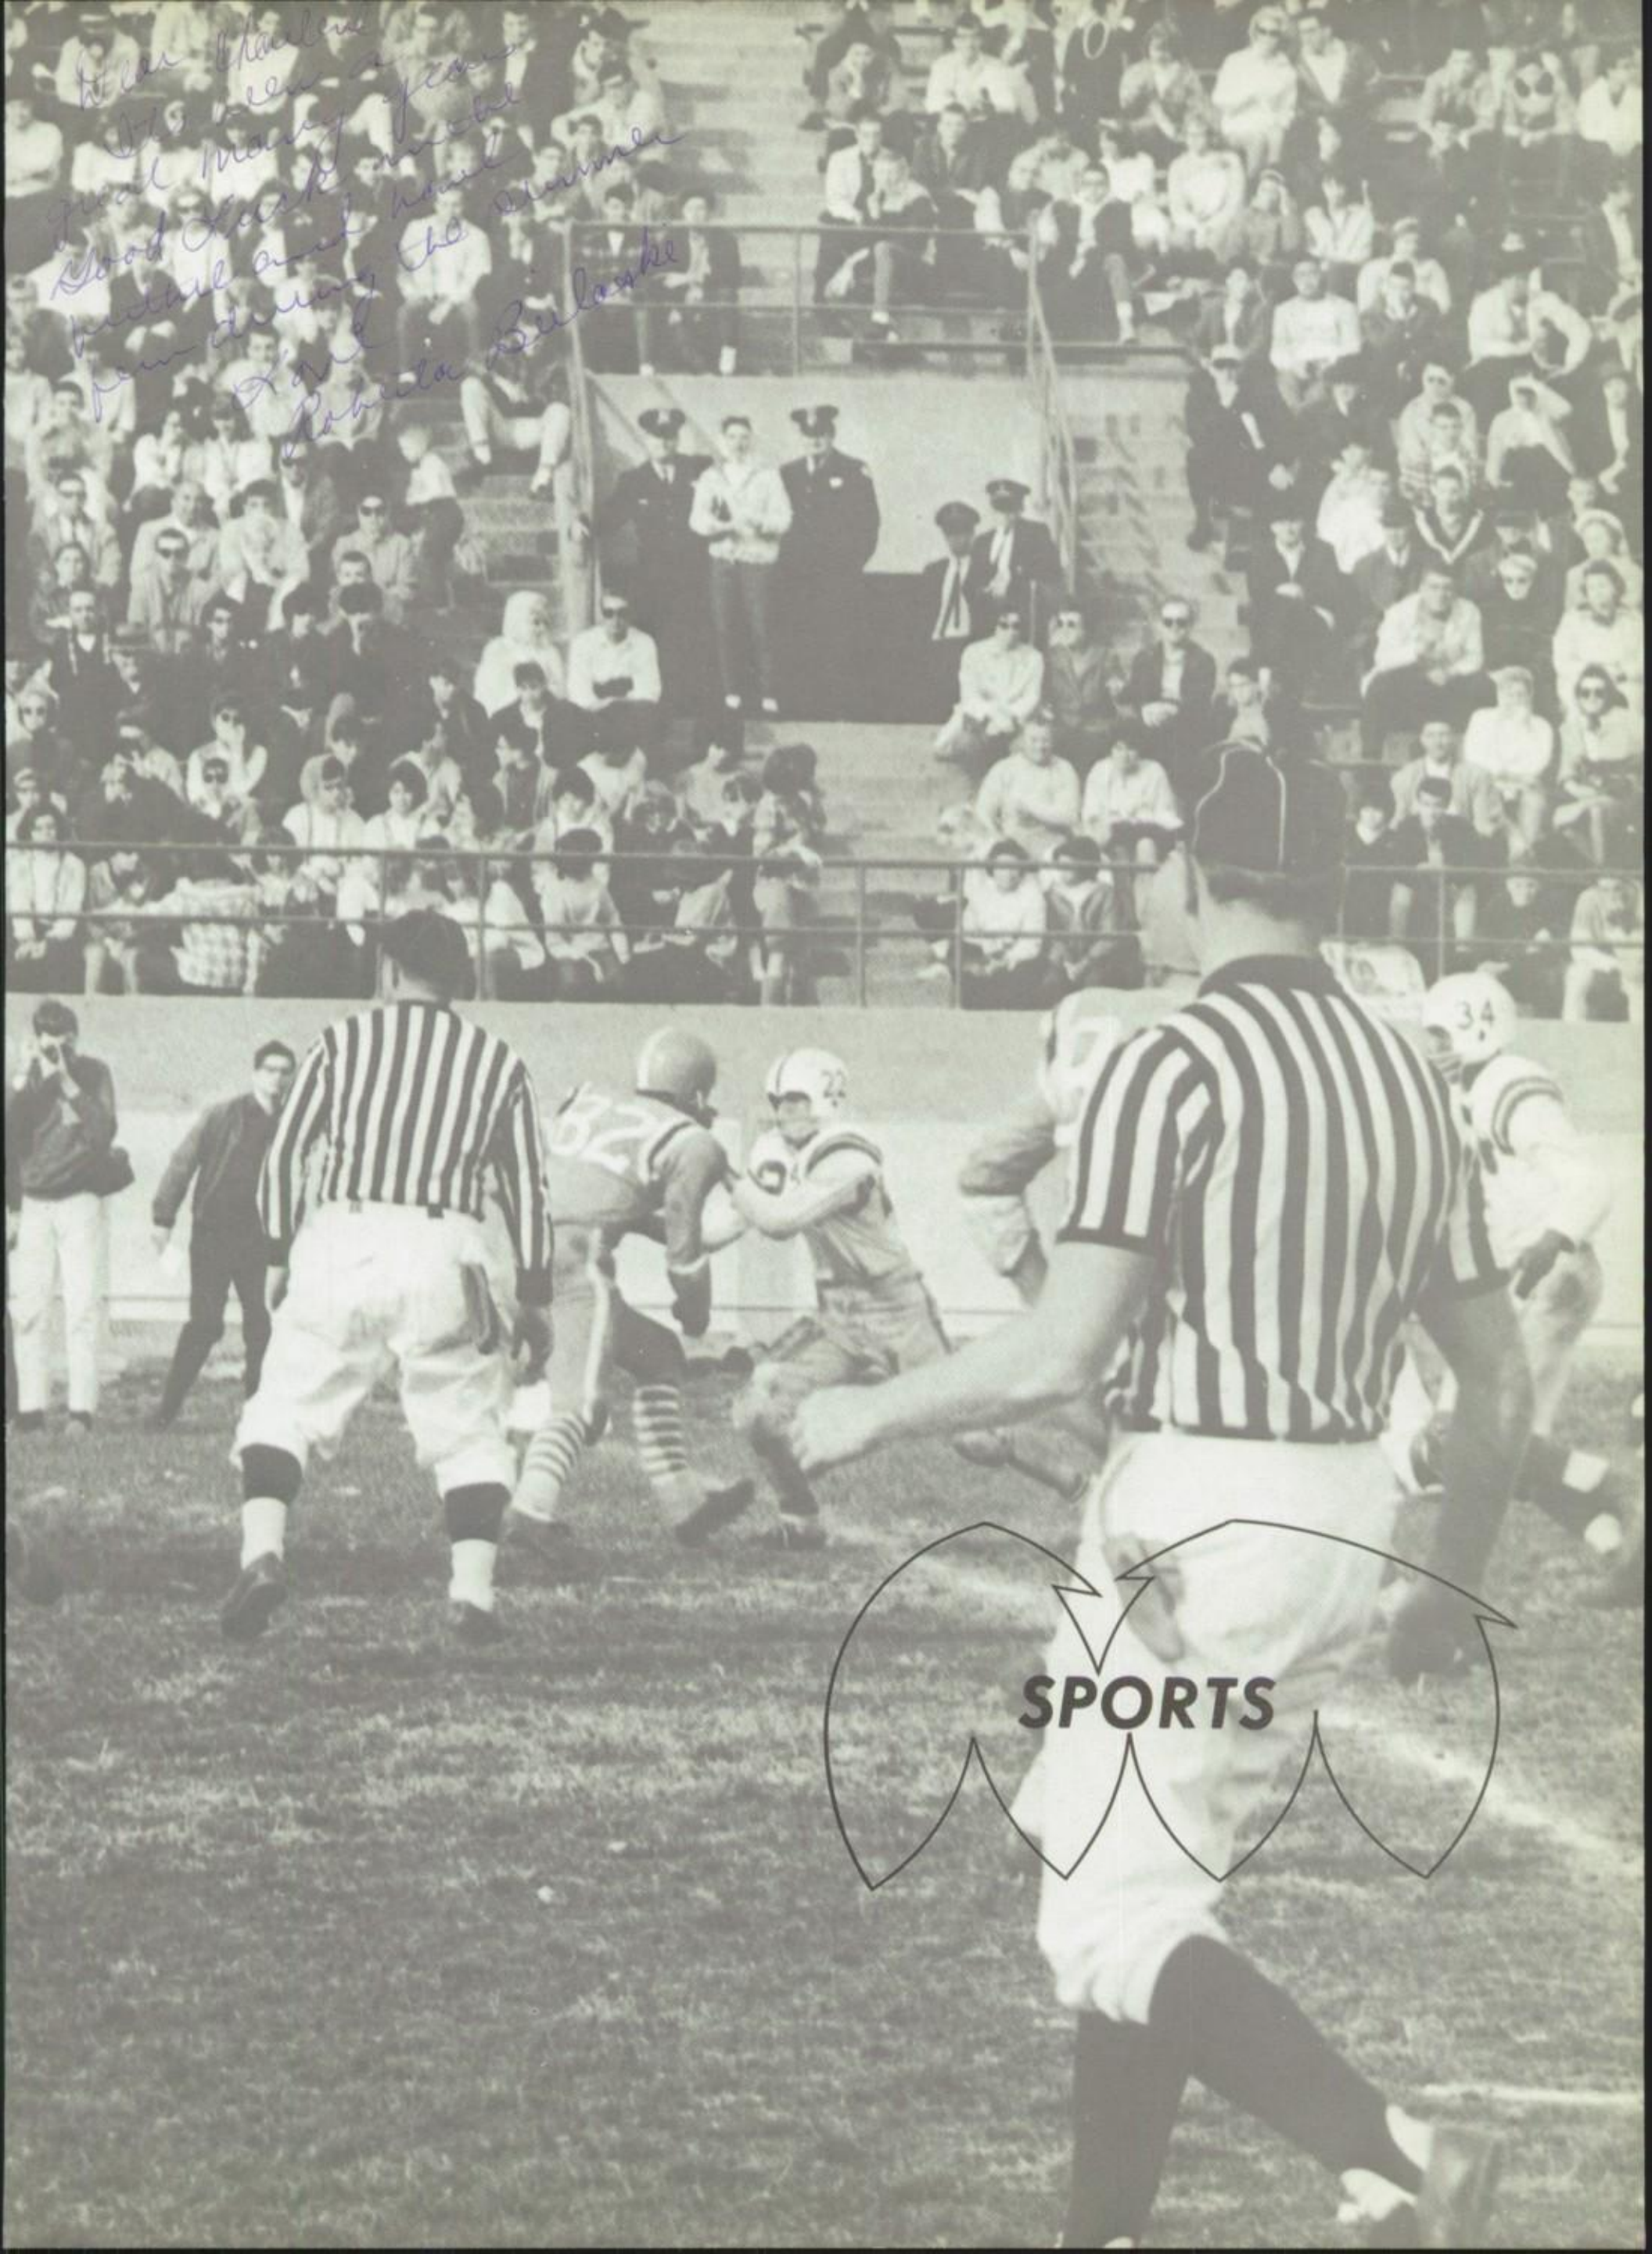

The club with the highest membership in the school once again proved to be Lunch Club. Claiming 100 % participation, it provided the community with healthy, well-fed teenagers. Activities reached record proportions as every day brought new excitement. The joys of Lunch Club involved

Bogan defenders display team pursuit as they foil a Lindblom threat.

The Bogan football team, again in the White Division, suffered another disappointing season as they compiled a record of 1-5-1. The team's league record 1-4 was just enough to keep the Bengals out of last place and in the same division for next year. The exhibition season opened with a 14-6 loss to Luther South and was followed by a 6-6 tie with Little Flower. Penalties proved to be the deciding factor as they stalled three Bengal scoring drives which might have tipped the score in our favor. The league season began against the strong and rival squad from Hubbard. The final score of 24-0 was a bitter blow to Bengal hopes. The campaigns against Englewood and Hirsch also proved to be defeats. Throughout the bitter days the school spirit and desire prevailed. When the Calumet Indians fell under the paws of the Bengals, Boganites experienced their first and only feelings of victory. Following a series of festivities the team engaged in the annual Homecoming game against Lindblom. Bogan grid-men marched on to what seemed sure victory and a play-off berth. All celebration plans were quickly dissolved as Lindblom scored a touchdown with forty-one seconds remaining making the final score 22-20.

Bogan's offense successfully grinds out additional yardage.

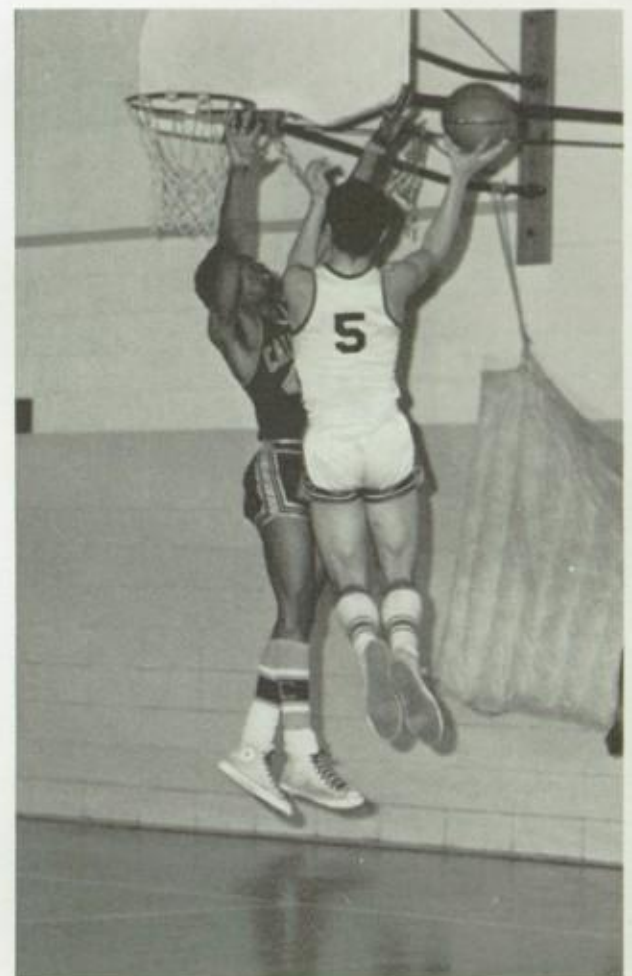

The annual Football Banquet concludes the rough season as players and coaches receive awards.

Bruce Barilla readies for a jump shot against Simeon.

Norm Omiecinski jumps for two.

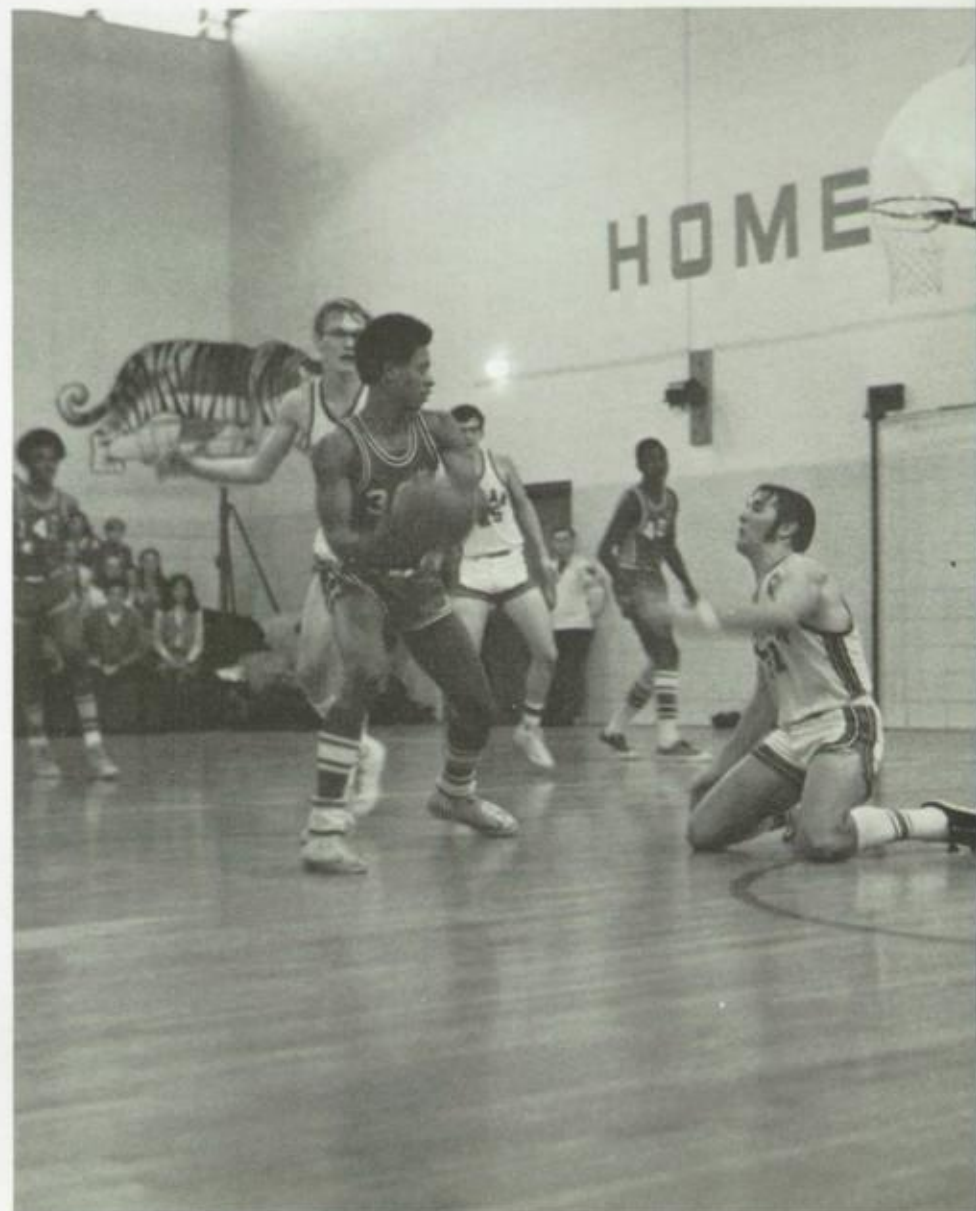

The varsity basketball team proved to be one of the best squads at Bogan in recent years. After lacking needed height in past seasons, Coach James Artese was blessed with a starting five who were six-foot or taller. Posting a 15-6 season record and 6-4 in league competition, Bogan captured second place in the Blue Division-South Section, as well as remaining undefeated at home.

Two new records were established when the Bengals scored 109 points against Gage Park, and when Mark Gallery tallied 42 points against Simeon. Had our cagers scored once more in three of their games they would have added three more victories to their impressive record. Those games were all lost by only two points.

Led by Mark Gallery and teamed with either Bruce Barilla or John Harasen guard, the team displayed a potent scoring attack with Jim Copenhaver, Norm Omiecinski, and Chuck Slager playing underneath the basket. The season ended with a disappointing loss to Morgan Park in the first game of the play-offs, but clearly displayed the outstanding talent, character and sportsmanship which was related with them throughout the season.

A good start, the final time and score, as well as a feeling of being banded as a team are all part of the action at a swim meet.

Under the direction of a new coach,

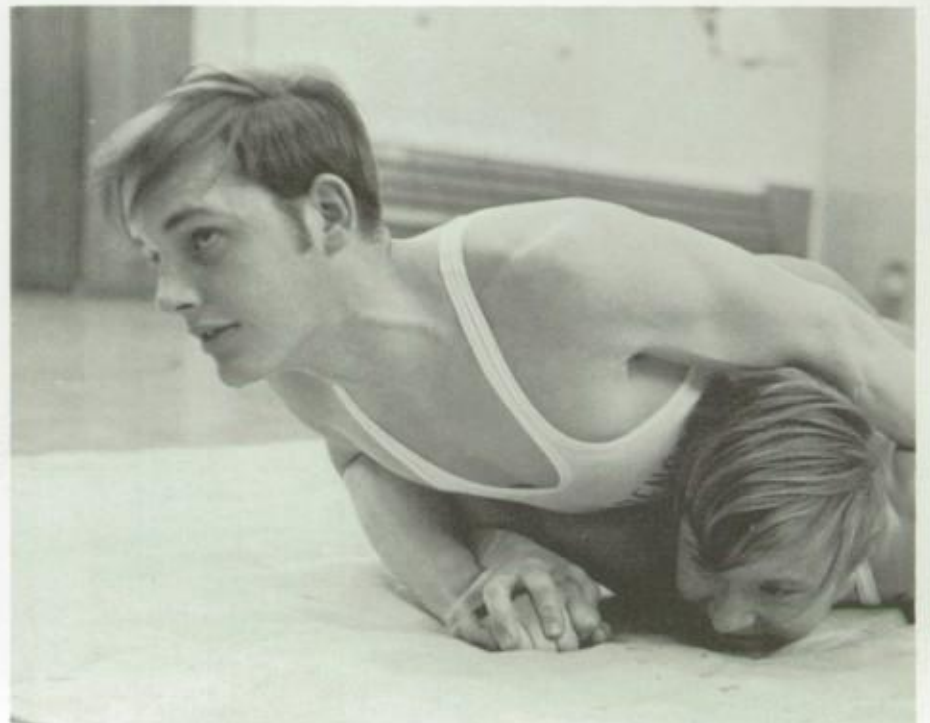

Mr. Fred Rittschof, the Bogan mermen placed fourth in city this year. As in the past, Fenger and Morgan Park proved to be our chief rivals as they finished ahead of us in the section standings. Posting a season's record of 17-5, the swimmers awaited the city finals.

The finals proved successful as the freestyle relay and medley relay teams placed third and fifth respectively. Led by Captain Ed Mosterd and sparked by his enthusiasm, the mermen moved on with Bruce Mulconery placing second in the 100-yard and third in the 50-yard freestyle events with Tom Enright capturing third in the 100-yard breaststroke. Among other swimmers were Scott Perry and Jim Richardson, who both swam well and consistently all season.

The 1970-71 season proved to be one of the toughest campaigns ever attempted by the Bogan wrestling team. Posting a league record of 3-4 against some of the city's most outstanding teams, proved that our grapplers were of winning caliber. Excitement and apprehension describe the feelings of participants as well as spectators as most meets proved to be close to the very end. A deciding factor in these meets was the fact that the Bogan team was strong at all weight classes. Leading the team in winning and with spirit were co-captains Bob Baker, Ed Jandacek, and Bill Meyer. Bill was the team's leading winner with an individual record of 13-1. Among other wrestling success stories were the performances of George Bailey, Ken Nemec, Jack Clegg, and Jim Frederick.

Finishing the 1970 season in second place in the section, the diamondmen entered the play-offs. The well balanced offense and defense took the Bengals all the way to the quarter finals before they were finally defeated.

Practice began this year long before the season opener. Sessions were held indoors during the cold weather for sharpening up on fundamentals and outdoors for team improvement and organization.

Following a series of practice games, the team was again successful and battling for top honors with Kennedy High School. The team's good fortune can be attributed to the fine hitting and fielding of stars such as Walter Brownley, Dan Severino, Bill Kalinak, and John Harasen, who has made the all-city team for three years.

A total of eight returning lettermen played on this year's team, including veteran pitchers

Terry Harrington and Dave Mills. During the season Coach Wayne McGee was quoted as saying, "The only thing that we can guarantee is that we'll play every game."

BOWLING TEAM — Ted Agins, Greg Lewis, Mike Scanlon, Bill Cosich, Gary Kamenske.

The Bowling team again rolled on to another fruitful season. After capturing first place in the southwest section, the bowlers went to the city championships. The result was Bogan securing third place. Some of the team's success can be credited to performances such as Greg Lewis' 229 for high game and Mike Scanlon's 612 for a series high.

The Golf team was off to another fine season, upholding the outstanding reputation of golf at Bogan.

Last year's team posted a 15-1 record with the lone loss against Fenger during a sudden death play-off in the semi-finals. The golfers represented

Chicago at the state championships as well as winning the section title. This year's team consisted of returning "pros" such as, Bruce Barilla, Ken Roche, and Jeff Pivaronas.

The Tennis team with Mr. Jerome Bosch as the new coach moved into the season with high hopes of taking the sectional crown. Sparked by performances of Captain Dave Stahr and veteran John Alex the team looked forward to the individual and team championships held at Grant Park in June.

Bringing out the spirit from within a crowd of eager Boganites is the duty of varsity cheerleaders Valerie Dangles, Sandy Bartosik, Sandy Skarr, co-captain Karen Jilek, Sandy Desormey, and co-captain Therese Frestel.

The dedicated board members of the G.A.A. put ideas together in an effort to urge on the gymnastic spirit of the many girls involved in the G.A.A. With their imaginations and knowledge of what would capture the girls' interest, the board members concocted both amusing and rewarding activities. The annual Bennie Initiation, Cookie Day, Teacher Open House, the variety show, and the yearly posture contest were among the events to which each girl had a chance to add her own characteristic touch of vivacious personality. Another facet of the G.A.A. was the unsung heroines of the gym class—the gym leader.

These girls assisted the teacher by demonstrating different games on the gym floor, feats on apparatus, and assuming the position of lifeguard.

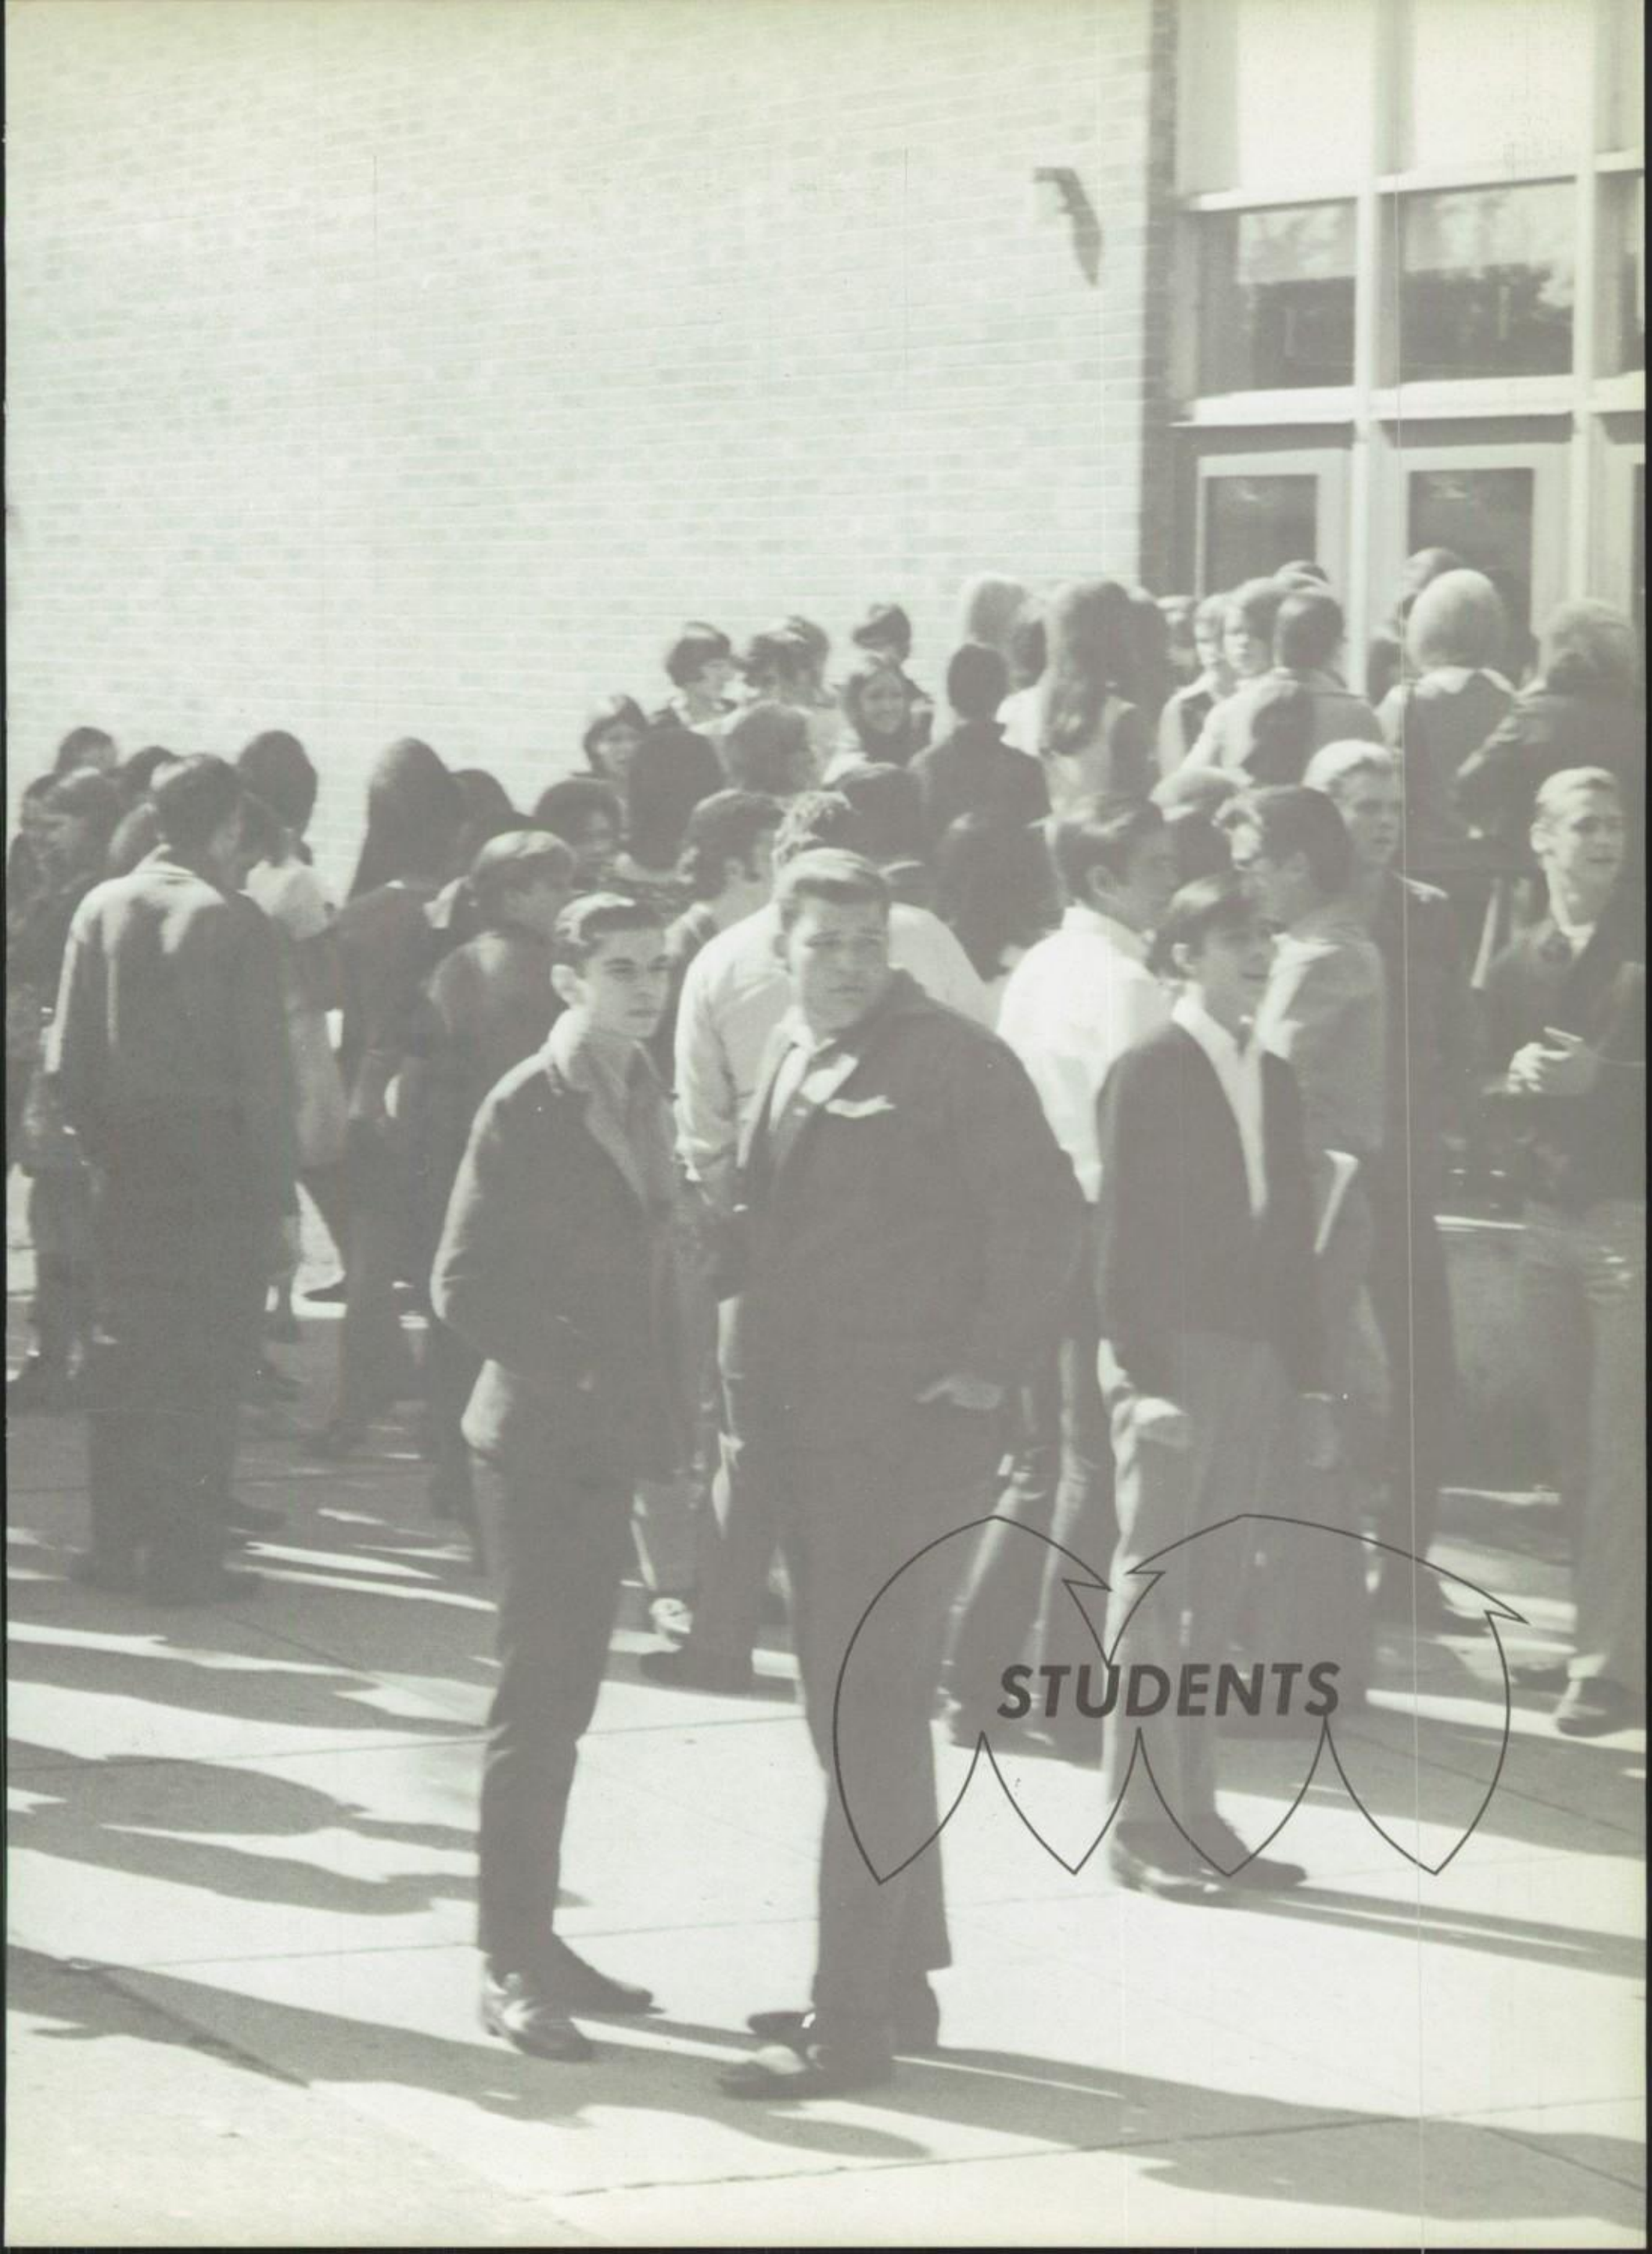

GIRLS ATHLETICS

The Posture Contest over,
Queen Janice Warton joins Valerie Dangles and Marcia Hauser at a reception for all contestants.

Division is
the most confusing time of day! Everyone
tries to talk at the same time,
and no one understands anything
that's going on. The only announcements that ever get across are the ones about getting out early!

Student Council

It seems to me that all of the messages from the class presidents of the past years say the same thing. They all stress the importance of academic progress as the most important aspect of high school.

To me there is something just as important as scholastic achievement. Not that academic progress isn't important, it is. But to me, people are important.

The people you meet are the people you grow to know and like.

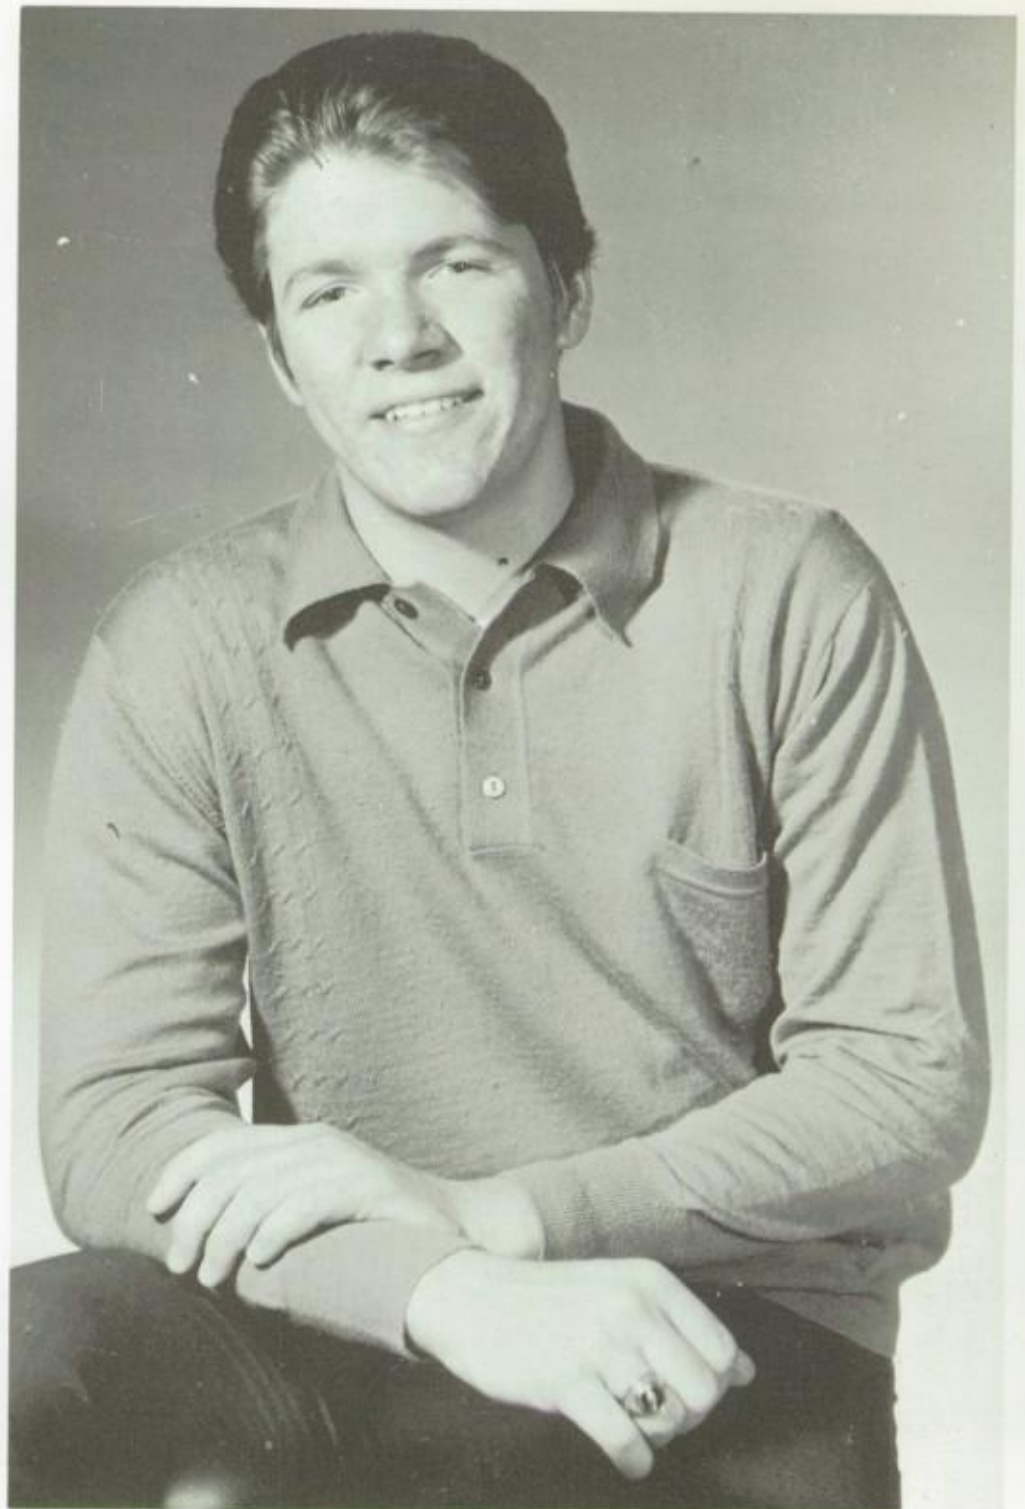

To make it in this world you have to know about people.

Along with people are the things you do. If you just sit back apathetically and say you enjoy it, you're only fooling yourself. If you get into the things happening around you and get involved you'll find it is a much better experience. Students have to do more than just sit and read and study all day. Your four years in high school should be something to remember the rest of your life.

All of the people, each and every one of us, will feel after graduation day that we have lost something. Some of us won't see each other again. I'm not going to write whether or not the class of '71 is united, because all of us in our minds know if it is true.

Sincerely and with all feelings,

Pat O'Connor

And so this was the 1971 Bogan world.
 It may not have been the best of all possible worlds, but I'll never forget it. The faces, friends, and good fortunes will never come again
 in this singular combination.
 Graduates will go on to discover new spheres of influence; others will return here in the autumn to find a different, changed world. But in my mind this year's world has been a special one,
 never to be again, relived only in memory.

Charlene,
 We had some fun
 times in office practice.
 Best of luck in all
 you do. Carol

Dear Char,

Well it's been real nice knowin' ya this year in good old office practice. Have fun over the summer & always. Keep smiling & be happy!

Good Luck & Love Always,

Jan Janekki

Dear Char,
It has been great (sort of) being in Janek's class & I did make it so it must not have been that bad. Good luck in everything you.
Love,

Charles:
Best of luck in all you do. Office practice was just this year. I wasn't in any of your other classes
but at least we had one. Stay sweet always
